FOREWORD

This history of the Neff family is dedicated to my father, Elmer Hartshorn Neff, whose stories about the Neff family in bygone days inspired me to look into the early Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, and other state records. It has been both interesting and gratifying to find that all the things he told me (stories handed down from generation to generation) were correct by the records. An example is the story of Mary Neff's capture by the Indians.

This is the first genealogy of a Neff family of English origin. It is interesting to note that the name Neff, spelled various ways, is a very old one in England and is not necessarily, as once thought, of Swiss origin.

Work on this book began in 1947. A trip to Salem, Mass., resulted in finding the estate settlements of William Neff and of Mary (Corliss) Neff. I also found deeds in the Essex Co. Land Records at Salem which established the fact that Clement Neff was the son of William and Mary Neff of Haverhill and that Clement went first to Westerly, R.I., and then to Windham, Conn., at an early date; also that Mary, wife of Matthias Button[2] of Plainfield, Conn., was the daughter of William and Mary Neff of Haverhill, Mass.

The first Court record of William Neff is dated 1658, and this 300th anniversary seems an appropriate time to stop. There is, of course, much material which I have been unable to obtain because of unanswered letters, and to the disappearance of a family from the records of one town without clues for the next town.

One other story is of especial interest. One day when we were attempting to make a bureau stand straight and not tilt forward on the uneven floor of our 1760 house in Connecticut, my father suddenly laughed and said, "As my father would say, 'that thing stands comin' like old M's Masten's bureau.'" To my great surprise, I found a deed in the Windham, Conn., land records involving the widow, Mrs. Martha Masten and William[3] Neff, dated Feb. 1746. This means, of course, that the phrase "stands comin' like old M's Masten's bureau" has been passed down as a joking remark for more than 200 years.

My thanks must go to the staff of the Connecticut State Library, especially to Mr. Burt, Miss Case, and Mr. Dennen, for their valuable assistance. My thanks must also go to the many cousins who have assisted in collecting information on various branches of the family: Mrs. Edna Hopkins, Mrs. Cassie Renner, Earl Neff, Hugh Neff and his mother in Wisconsin, Mrs. Ella Cilley in Arizona, Mrs. Margaret Sterling in Texas, Ellery Neff in Connecticut, several in New York state, and last but not least, Mrs. Marcelia Neff Fisher of Iowa, whose encouragement and cross-country conversations by letter, have meant everything during the last 11 years. Many other relatives have also contributed, too numerous to mention.

It has been my purpose, whenever I could, to include material which would make people of past generations more real. Much research has been done on the allied families of Button, Dingley, Durkee, Genings or Jennings, Rowley, and Webster. More than usual space has been devoted to the descendants of Matthias and Mary (Neff) Button as the only existing Button genealogy is old and not very satisfactory. Button data includes my findings in Massachusetts and Connecticut Vital Records, and family information supplied by W.L. Campbell of Dixie, Wash. It is hoped everyone will read about these earliest Neff generations.

THE ANCESTRY OF WILLIAM NEFF

This family of Neff is of English origin. The word "nef" is an old one in the English language, meaning ship. In feudal days, the lords of the manor in England had a special gold or silver dish for serving certain foods which was shaped like a ship and called a "nef." Champlain in writing of his explorations along the coast of Maine, spoke of Monhegan Island as a "nef," meaning it looked like a ship in the water.

William Neff was in Newbury, Mass., at a very early date when the settlers there were English. The story of our English origin has been passed down from father to son in many branches of the family along with the name of William Neff, and his wife Mary Neff who was carried off by the Indians with Hannah Dustin in 1697. While it has been impossible to identify the parents of William[1] Neff, efforts have been made and several possibilities are suggested below.

One of the family stories which has been handed down was to the effect that we were related to a Sir William Neff in England, and it seems that there was a Sir William Le Neve in England (1600-1661), herald and genealogist, who lived at a time for William's father to have known him, if he was the first of the family to come to the Colonies, or for William[1] himself, to have known if he came over in his teens. Sir William Le Neve was the son and heir of William Le Neve of Aslacton, County Norfolk, by his first wife, the daughter of John Oldham of Shimpling. Le Neve was appointed Mowbray herald extraordinary under a warrant dated 24 June 1622; York herald 25 Nov. 1625; Norroy King of Arms Dec. 1633 and Clarenceaux King of Arms 23 June 1635, having previously been knighted at Whitehall on 23 April 1634 by Charles I.

Correspondence with the Royal Genealogical Soc. in London has produced the information that Neff, Neffe, Neve, Le Neve, Neave and Le Neave are variants of the same name. Mr. Sheffield Neave, a past President of the Royal Genealogical Soc. in England, wrote me that the name is a very old one in England, going back before the time of William the Conqueror and the prefix "Le" was added during the time of William the Conqueror as a courtesy, but was later dropped. Members of this Neve-Neave family had sugar plantations in the West Indies during the 1600's and 1700's, but all records of this branch of the family were lost in England during the bombings of World War II. It is entirely possible that William[1] Neff's name was spelled Neve or Neave in England and was changed by the different town or court clerks who recorded it as it is spelled in various ways even by them. There were people in New England at an early date who spelled their names Neve and Neave.

Hotten, in his "Original Lists of Persons of Quality Who Went From Great Britain to the American Plantations, 1600-1700," lists one William Nesse 23 yeres" (Possibly Neffe as s and f were written alike), among passengers July 4, 1635. "Theis underwritten names are to be transported to Virginea imbarqued in the Transport of London, Mr. Edward Walker,p." It is possible that this William Nesse or Neffe settled in Vir. or, like others, did not like it there and made his way by boat to Mass., as there was an active coastwise trade by that date. Or if he was the father of William[1] Neff, William might easily have gone from Virginia to Mass. by boat.

The Essex Institute Hist. Coll. Vol. 57, p. 313, refers to the "Bilboa Merchant of Yarmouth whereof one William Neave is Master" and of a trip it made from Yarmouth, England to Boston in 1670. Perhaps this William Neave had made earlier trips to Boston and put his son ashore to try life in the Colonies.

It is also possible that William[1] Neff of this volume was a political refugee from Oliver Cromwell, whose victorious forces were killing all supporters of the King they could find. The Neff-Neve-Neave family were all strong Royalists and many hundreds of the Kings supporters fled to the Colonies around the time William first appears in the Essex County Court records.

THE ANCESTRY OF MARY (CORLISS) NEFF

Mary Corliss was the daughter of George Corliss, who was born at or near Exeter, Devonshire, England in 1617, the son of Thomas Corliss. He settled in Newbury, Mass., about 1639, at which date he gave his age as 22 years. He moved to Haverhill, Mass., a few years later and on Oct. 26, 1645 married Joanna Davis, by whom he had one son and seven daughters. His was the second marriage to be recorded at Haverhill.

By 1645, George Corliss was one of the 32 landholders in Haverhill. He was an able and industrious man who was able to increase his land holdings very materially over the years. By 1647, he had erected a log house in the densely forested West Parish and in later years his farm was called "Poplar Lawn." He owned most of the land on both sides of the old "Spicket Path," as it was then called, for a distance of more than three miles.

George Corliss was a freeman in 1645. He was Constable of Haverhill in 1650 and a Selectman 1648, 1652, 1657, 1669 and 1679. By a strange coincidence, George Corliss and his son and grandson died while sitting in the same chair in the Corliss home. George died Oct. 19, 1686. His will dated Oct. 18, probated Nov. 23, 1686, divided his extensive farm among his children, the home farm going to his son, John Corliss, and the farm one mile east to his daughter, Mrs. Mary Neff. Administration of the estate was granted to William Neff.

Joanna Davis, wife of George Corliss, and mother of Mary (Corliss) Neff, was the daughter of Thomas Davis and his wife, Christian Coffin who were married in England before emigrating to this country. Thomas Davis was a sawyer from Marlborough, County Wiltshire, England, who came on the "James" in April 1635, arriving Boston June 3, 1635. He was a freeman June 2, 1641. He was of Newbury 1641 and seems to have settled in Haverhill in the spring of 1642. His name is signed on the deed of purchase of the Haverhill territory from the Indians. Thomas Davis was elected one of the first Selectman of Haverhill at the Town Meeting Jan. 13, 1646. He was a Constable in 1655. He was a Mason. He was born 1603 and died July 27, 1683 and his wife died April 17, 1688, both at Haverhill. Administration of Thomas Davis' estate was granted Oct. 30, 1683, to William Neffe. Another administration was granted in 1728 to his great-grandson, John Corliss. The Davis family traces its origin to Wales from whose patron saint, David, the name is derived.

THE DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM NEFF

1. WILLIAM[1] NEFF, born 1639-1642 (he gave his age as 24 yrs. in 1663, Essex Co. Court Rec. Vol. 3, p. 127 and his family gave his age at death as 47 yrs.); "went after ye Army & died at Pemaquid (Me.) Feb. 1688/9;" married 23 Jan. 1665, Haverhill, Mass., MARY CORLISS, born 8 Sept. 1646 at Haverhill, Mass. and died there 22 Oct. 1722 (Haverhill V.R.), the daughter of George & Joanna (Davis) Corliss. Mary Neff was a famous Colonial heroine.

The name of William Neff appears in The Records and Files of the Quarterly Courts of Essex County, Mass., in a number of cases between 1658 and 1681. These cases show him to be living first in Newbury and later in Haverhill, Mass. There is enough variety in the cases to give a rather surprisingly clear picture of life in those hard, rough days of struggle; of the tremendous effort it took to carve a home and farm and to bring up a family in the midst of a virgin forest while constantly in danger from Indian raids incited by the French; and of the various ways of adding to the family income.

William Neff appears first in the Court Records May 6, 1658 in Newbury, at which time he was working for John Knight, one of the first settlers at Newbury, who was licensed to run an Inn. Joseph Muzzey also worked at the Inn altho he had inherited a farm from his father. The Court Records show William lived at John Knight's house and altho he is referred to as his servant in one case, William was free to come and go for social affairs and on other jobs, so he could not have been a Bond Servant. (See Court Rec. in Appendix) The cases also show him to have been a hard working man and of an independent spirit.

On May 14, 1663, William Neff was made the Town Herdsman of Newbury, a position of importance and trust, as horses and cattle were of very great value and scarcity at that date. The following document is from the Essex Co. Quarterly Court Records Vol. 3, p. 126 & 127.

"The herdsmen's covenant: Agreed May 14, 1663 between the selectmen and William Neph, that the latter is to spend his whole time this somer, and to do his utmost endeavor to keep up the townes dry cattell and horses out of the cow commons, and to search the severall comons as there shalbe need, to cleare the dry cattell and horses out of the same, and also the hedge first being amended, the said William is to amend such gapps as he shall find in the hedge, and thus to continue as long as the selectmen shall see meet, and when they shall appoint, he shall bring downe all the cattell and horses also, the first time it is agreed that the said cattell shalbe brought unto their places, for the said Willaim to take them to Granell Hill, at the pound, at John Bartlet's barne & at Goodman Pilsbury where the said William is to attend & drive them up. And the said William is to have for his labour 15 shillings pr weeke, one halfe in english corne and the other halfe in Indian. The which the said William is to demand it of the severall persons which are the owners of the cattell at the end of the time, and if it be not ready he is to appoint them where to pay it in the towne, as at Abraham Tappans & Richard Doles houses, within 10 days following and if payment be not made the said William is to sue the said owners that do not pay and the selectman is to assist him in it what is meet." Copy made by Anthony Somerby.

On Dec. 6, 1664, William Neff was a witness for John Knight in Court (Vol. 3, p. 346), while on the next page William Neph won the verdict in a case against John Woolcott for an unpaid debt.

John Knight testified that "about the 6 of last March was twelmunth, and John Woolcot came to deponent's house to talk with William Neph to help him work at Posskataque and agreed to give said Neph 3£ per month and his diet, in cotton and English wool at price current. In case he did not like the wool offered, Woolcott was to pay him in boards at 40s per thousand, as he was to have such pay of Capt. Barfut. Said Neph lived at deponent's house when the bargain was made and he went away with his things and stayed about 9 weeks. Sworn in Court.

"John Wilson deposed that Neph worked with him for John Woolcott upon a saw mill above Poskataqua eight weeks. Sworn in Court.

"William Neph's bill of costs for going for John Wilson to Grenland etc. 1 li:17s:8d."

On Jan. 23, 1665, William Neff married Mary Corliss at Haverhill, Mass. George Corliss gave them a farm from his extensive land holdings and William built a house on it. His name is on a list of those who had already built new houses on the common or their own land, dated 1668. Here William and Mary had six children, five boys and a daughter Mary.

People in those days saw little "hard money" and what they had was hoarded against a very special occasion. In order to buy articles of food or clothing, farm implements, etc. which could not be made at home, William, like other settlers, paid in goods. From the wonderful white oak trees he chopped down to clear farm land, he made "white oak pipe staves," "White oak hogshead staves and hogshead heading 2 ft. 3 in. in length"; also "cedar clapboards" all delivered at the Haverhill Landing (See Appendix). Other items of trade were wheat and pork. One interesting list of purchases in 1678 was: "2 yds holland 11s; stokins 9s; 2 Hatts p.Jno. Adkinson 9s 8d; Thread & Cooten 8s 9d; 17½ pd. sugar 10s 4d; cotten wooll 15s 3d; total 3 li:4s." William loved horses and bred and sold them, as did a number of his descendants.

William Neff was also a surveyor. One such job which he did with Joseph Kingsbury in Sept. 1684, was for Thomas Woodbury and Joseph Beason of Beverly (Essex Inst. Hist. Coll. Vol. 68, p. 186). Under date of 1667 appears the following interesting document in Records of the Mass. Bay Colony (Shurtleff Vol. 4, Pt. 2, p. 381):

"The bounds & Scittuation of M^{r} Edward Michelson farme of three hundred acres of land, granted vnto him by the honoured Generall Court, it being lajed out to the westward of Hauerill bounds, & it is bounded wth land lajed out for Jeremy Belchar, of Ipswich, vpon the north; the sajd north ljne extendeth two hundred rod; & at the west end of the sajd north ljne it is bounded wth a black oake tree marked, & wth a white oake tree marked at the east corner of the sajd north ljne, & bounded vpon the east wth land of the sajd Belchars; the east ljne extendeth two hundred twentje five rods vnto a white oake tree marked, & wth land of the sajd Belchars on y^{e} south, vnto a pine tree marked; the sajd south ljne rangeth two hundred rod vpon the square; the west ljne is bounded vpon the countrys land, & extendeth one hundred & sixty rod, vnto the first mentioned black oake tree; & the sircular strip of land that joynes to the square conteynes about sixty acres, and it is sufficiently bounded wth heap of stones & trees marked; and at the west end of the sajd strip it is bounded wth two heaps of stones, one vpon each side of the sajd strip. The aboue mentioned farme was lajd out & bounded as is herein exprest by vs whose names are herevnto subscribed, the 23 June 1667.

The Court allowes of this returne."

In June 1683, a town meeting discussed once more the question of replacing the Meeting House which was too small for the increasing population and was also in poor condition. Apparently all agreed a new church was needed but 15 voted to tear down the present Meeting House and re-build on the same site, while 34, including William Neff and his father-in-law, George Corliss, voted to use the building they had until a new Meeting House could be built on a new site.

In Feb. 1688/9 William was drafted for the army by the much-hated Gov. Andros and went with a party of men to Maine and died at Pemaquid. At this time his youngest son, Thomas, was only 12. Thomas and his older brother John, according to family tradition, settled in Penn. and Del., but I have been unable to establish this, to date.

MARY NEFF, COLONIAL HEROINE

Mary Corliss Neff was born at Haverhill, Mass., in Sept. 1646, the daughter of George Corliss, one of the leading men in Haverhill. Mr. Corliss was a proprietor and was made a freeman in 1645, which meant that he could take part in running church and civil government affairs. He was elected Constable of Haverhill in 1650 and was elected a Town Selectman repeatedly. He was a man of means and had extensive land holdings. First he built a strong log house in the heavily forested West Parish of Haverhill and later a fine two story house, so that life was always as comfortable for the Corliss family as was possible in that frontier town.

Mary was trained in all the household arts and duties and, as the oldest of eight children, she undoubtedly had plenty of opportunity to practice all she had been taught. She grew up strong and healthy, which was fortunate in view of her later experiences. Life was relatively peaceful in her younger years, but after she had been married only a few weeks, the following document came to Haverhill which can be found now in the Rec. of the Court of Assistants of the Colony of Mass. Bay, Vol. 3, p. 158.

On the back is written:

"Thi^{s} warent wa^{s} serued vpon each perticular person Acording to the tennor of it arest sarah butten and ( ) liues not in Hauerhill

I have no evidence that these people ever testified in a witch trial of John Godfrey, but the summons must have caused considerable excitement in town.

As the years passed, William and Mary Neff were blessed with six children. Their home was on a rise of ground on the left side of the road running from the compact part of Haverhill out to the farm where Thomas & Hannah Duston lived after their marriage in 1677. Later on, their son William enlisted in His Majesty's Army serving elsewhere in Mass. and in Nov. 1686, their only daughter, Mary Neff Jr. married Matthias Button Jr.

At this point, the relationship between the Neff, Button and Duston families should be given. Matthias Button Sr. married, as his fourth wife, the widow Elizabeth (Wheeler) Duston, on June 9, 1663. The new Mrs. Button had a young son, Thomas Duston (who later became the husband of the Hannah Duston of our story. In 1663, Thomas Duston was about 11 years old and by his mother's second marriage, he suddenly acquired five young brothers and sisters; Hannah Button also 11 years old, Daniel 9, Abigail 7, Matthias Jr. 5, Peter 3 and they all grew up together in the same household. Matthias Button Sr., being a man of some means, saw to it that Thomas Duston, along with his own sons, received a good education and he trained them all to be industrious and thrifty. The benefit of this training showed in the adult lives of Thomas Duston of Haverhill and of Matthias Button Jr. who is recorded in history as one of the leading citizens of Plainfield, Conn.

By 1697, the year of the Haverhill massacre, we find Mrs. Mary Neff all alone except for her son Joseph. Mrs. Neff's husband "went after ye Army and died in Feb. 1688/9, at Pemaquid, Me.", perhaps killed by an Indian arrow. Her oldest son, William, had also been killed by Indians in 1691 (see #2 William Neff). Her three younger sons, who were all in their twenties by 1697, had left Haverhill for life adventures elsewhere. About 1690 or 91, Matthias and Mary (Neff) Button Jr. had migrated to Plainfield, Conn. so that Mrs. Neff's only daughter was too far away to see any more. It is easy to imagine that Hannah Duston and her babies, who lived nearby, filled an empty corner in Mary's heart.

An early writer has pictured Mrs. Mary Neff as having a very cheerful disposition and as being always ready to help others. Thus we find her, on that fateful March 15th, 1697, at the Duston home taking care of Hannah Duston and her 6-day old baby, Martha. The Rev. Cotton Mather in his Magnalia, gives one of the most complete and reliable accounts of this entire affair. In it he refers to Mary Neff as Hannah's nurse and she was certainly acting in that capacity at the moment. But the relationship between Mary Neff and Hannah Duston was a lot more than that: they were neighbors and friends and Mary's daughter and Hannah were sisters-in-law.

On the morning of March 15th, Thomas Duston had taken the older children with him when he went to work in a nearby field. He had taken his gun with him, not that he was expecting Indian trouble because there had been no incidents since the previous August, when two neighbors had been killed and their sons carried into captivity. But for years, the men of Haverhill had always kept a gun with them wherever they went as they never knew when the Indians might attack.

The English had tried to maintain friendly relations with the Indians but the French in Canada never ceased in their efforts to win the New World from the English and did all they could to incite the Indians against the English. They even offered the Indians bounties for English scalps and for live English captives who were then sold into slavery to the French in Canada. The result was that every time roving bands of Indians came near an English town, they were looking for scalps and captives. Just such a band was in the forest near Haverhill on the night of March 14th. The first warning came when Thomas Duston suddenly saw a number of Indians approaching the field where he was at work. Telling his children to hurry to the nearest garrison house, he grabbed his gun and jumped on his horse to ride home and try to save his wife and baby. But the Indians were so close he saw he could do nothing for her and returned to join his children. By means of walking behind the children while pointing his gun at the Indians, he managed to get them to the garrison house, probably that of Onesiphorus Marsh. No one will ever know why the Indians did not shoot them all.

At the Duston house, all was pandemonium and terror. Mrs. Neff picked up the baby and tried to run with her to safety. However, she was 50 years old and could not out-run the Indian warrior who soon caught her and brought her back. Meanwhile, Hannah was ordered out of bed and told to dress herself, while the Indians ransacked her house and grabbed up everything they could carry off. Then they dragged her out, minus one shoe (so it is said), and set fire to the house. A few of the Indians hustled Hannah and Mary with the baby toward the woods. Stories vary as to the cause, but suddenly an Indian snatched little Martha out of Mary Neff's arms and swung it against an apple tree, dashing out its brains. One can imagine the feelings which filled Hannah Duston's heart at this point. The Indians rushed the two women along until they reached the spot in the woods where the squaws and children had been left. Here they were joined by other warriors who had killed twenty-seven and captured thirteen inhabitants of Haverhill.

Fearing pursuit, the Indians pushed on for about 12 miles that night. Several of the weaker captives who could not keep up the rapid pace, were killed and scalped and left beside the path. Hannah Duston must surely have met this same horrible fate, since she was sick and doubtless filled with shock and grief at the wanton killing of her baby, had she not been helped along by the strong arm and encouragement of her friend, Mary Neff. The party pushed rapidly on for 150 miles or more, through dense forests and over rough, rocky ground. In March, it must have been a cold, terrible journey, with snow still on the ground and icy brooks to be crossed.

The group which claimed Mary and Hannah consisted of 12 men women and children. One of the Indian men had lived in the family of Rev. Mr. Rowlandson of Lancaster, some years before; he had learned to speak English and had been taught to pray. Later he had been converted by French priests and, strangely enough, would not let the children eat or sleep without saying their prayers. But the Indians tried to prevent Mary and Hannah from praying! With this Indian family was a 14 year old boy, named Samuel Lennardson, who had been captured at Worcester about a year and a half before.

During the march northward, the Indians told the two women that when they reached the Indian Town, they would be stripped and made to run the gantlet. They described in frightening detail how they would be forced to run between two lines of Indians, men, women and children, who would beat them with clubs, tomahawks, etc.

Spurred on by these tales, the cruel treatment they were receiving, and a desire to avenge the death of her baby, Hannah Duston is said to have planned a way of escape which she was able to tell Mary and Samuel about, secretly. Samuel, who also wanted to escape, got his master, Bampico, to tell him how he killed and scalped the English. Bampico responded with full details, little suspecting the thought behind the question.

The band of 12 Indians and their three captives parted from the other Indians and Haverhill captives, about March 30, 1697, when they reached the Indians' home on an island at the junction of the Contoocook and Merimac Rivers. This is now Penacook, N. H., about 5 miles north of Concord, N. H. Now that they were "home" and the island was surrounded by rivers full of spring flood waters, the Indians relaxed. Samuel Lennardson was considered one of the family and the two women were obviously too worn out to try to escape, so the Indians all went to sleep that night without setting a guard.

This was just the opportunity the captives had been hoping for. A little before midnight, when the Indians were all soundly asleep, Hannah, Mary and Samuel, each armed with a tomahawk or hatchet, stole silently to a position near the heads of the sleeping Indians. All three tomahawks fell as one, and so quickly and quietly did the three move along, 10 of the 12 Indians were killed, with only one severely wounded squaw, and a small boy they had intended to take home with them, escaping into the woods.

A deposition sworn to before Joshua Bayley of Haverhill, June 28, 1739, is of interest here. "The deposition of the Widow Hannah Bradley of Haverhill of full age who testifieth & saith that about forty years past the said Hannah together with the widow Mary Neff were taken prisoners by the Indians & carried together into captivity, & above penny cook the Deponent was by the Indians forced to travel farther than the rest of the Captives, and the next night but one there came to us one Squaw who said that Hannah Duston and the aforesaid Mary Neff assisted in killing the Indians of her wigwam except herself and a boy, herself escaping narrowly, shewing to myself & others seven wounds as she said with a Hatchet on her head which wounds were given her when the rest were killed, and further saith not." Hannah Bradley signed with her mark. The General Court granted Joseph Neff two hundred acres of land. (See #4 Joseph Neff for more on this).

Hannah, Mary and Samuel quickly loaded one of the canoes with some food and weapons, including the gun of Hannah's captor and the hatchet and scalping knife said to have been used by Hannah (now on view at the Duston Family Assoc. quarters in Haverhill). They hastily chopped holes in the other canoes so they could not be used for pursuit, and started out. Hannah is said to have insisted on a return to the island to secure the Indian's scalps as a proof of their story. In any event, the 10 scalps were wrapped in linen stolen from Hannah's house and taken back to Haverhill.

They traveled at night, taking turns guiding the canoe down the Merrimac river and sleeping. They hid during the day, in constant fear of pursuit and roving bands of Indians. They finally reached the home of John Lovell at what is now Nashua, N. H. A monument was erected there in 1902 commemorating the event. The next morning the weary travelers reached Bradley's Cove, leaving the canoe there and going the rest of the way to Haverhill on foot. The two women had been given up for lost, so that one can imagine the joy and excitement their return and their story created.

Although the bounty of 50 pounds on Indian scalps had been revoked in 1696, Mr. Duston felt that the two women and the boy had done a tremendous thing in destroying some of the enemies who were killing innocent women and children. So after the three had had a chance to rest and recover somewhat from their experiences, they all went to Boston with their trophies, arriving April 21, 1697.

Mr. Duston filed the following petition which was read in the House of Representatives June 8, 1697 (Mass. Archives Vol. 70, p. 350):

"To the Right Honorable the Lieut Governor & the Great & General assembly of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay now convened in Boston

The Humble Petition of Thomas Durstan of Haverhill Sheweth

That the wife of ye petitioner (with one Mary Neff) hath in her Late captivity among the Barbarous Indians, been disposed & assisted by heaven to do an extraordinary action, in the just slaughter or so many of the Barbarians, as would by the law of the Province which---- a few months ago, have entitled the actors unto considerable recompense from the Publick.

That tho the----of that good Law-----no claims to any such consideration from the publick, yet your petitioner humbly----that the merit of the action still remains the same; & it seems a matter of universall desire thro the whole Province that it should not pass unrecompensed.

And that your petitioner having lost his estate in that calamity wherein his wife was carried into her captivity render him the fitter object for what consideration the public Bounty shall judge proper for what hath been herein done, of some consequence, not only unto the persons more immediately delivered, but also unto the Generall Interest

Wherefore humbly Requesting a favorable Regard on this occasion

Your Petitioner shall pray &c

Thomus Du(r)stun."

The day the petition was read in the House of Representatives, it was voted "that the above named Thomas Durstan in behalf of his wife shall be allowed & paid out of the publick Treasury Twenty-five pounds: & Mary Neff the sum of Twelve pounds Ten Shillings, and the young man (Samuel Lenerson) concerned in the same action the like sum of Twelve pounds Ten Shillings." The larger sum granted to Mr. Duston was probably because of his "lost estate"; in other words, the burning of his house and household goods.

The unusual and astonishing exploit of Mary Neff, Hannah Duston, and Samuel Leonardson created quite a stir throughout the Colonies and the two women received many gifts. The only one which seems to have been preserved is the silver tankard presented to them by Gov. Sir Francis Nicholson of Maryland, now in the possession of the Duston Family Association at Haverhill, Mass. There are three statues commemorating these three people and their tremendous adventure. The first one was erected in 1861 at Haverhill, a block of Italian marble five feet square and 24 feet high. The second statue was erected at Penacook, N. H. in 1874 and the third stands in G.A.R. Park, Haverhill (1879).

In spite of this exciting experience, Mary Neff lived at Haverhill, in her own home, to the age of 76 years. The following inventory of her estate appears in the Essex Co., Mass., Probate Records #19221. The Inventory was taken in 1722 by Daniel Little, Phillip Hasletine and Jonathan Emerson.

The material for the story of Mary Neff was obtained from a considerable number of historical sources. The story of the capture of Mary and Hannah, Mary's attempt to carry the baby to safety and the baby's death, their rising in the night to kill and scalp their Indian captors and their escape was the same story in the records as my father had told me as a child, as grandpa had told him, and so on back thru the generations. In fact this story has been passed down with remarkable accuracy from generation to generations in all branches of the Neff family which I have been able to trace. We are proud to have this brave, strong woman for our ancestor.

SECOND GENERATION

2. WILLIAM[2] NEFF (William[1]) born 5 May 1667 at Haverhill, Mass. No record of his marriage has been found, and only two incidents in connection with him in the army. He went into the regular army according to an incident in the Records of the Courts of Assistants, Colony of Massachusetts Bay, 1630-1692, Vol. I. Pages are devoted to the trial of various men involved but William was acquitted of guilt in the affair and set free. It seems that the ketch, Mary of Salem, was boarded at Falmouth in "Martyn's vinyard sound" by Thomas Pound and others. They ran up "red Flaggs from the masthead" and robbed the boat, committing an act of piracy.

Court "Adjourned to Munday the 20th of January instant 1689 at one o'clock and then met." Thomas Darforth Esq., Deputy Governor presided.

"William Neffe being imprisoned upon accusation for deserting their Ma[ties] Garrison at Falmouth where he was posted a private Centinel, and confederating with Thomas Pound Thomas Hawkins .....in their piracy, said Neffe appearing in Court and it being certified that he was enticed and deluded away from the Garrison by his Corporal And that he tooke the first Opportunity to leave the pirates, Escaping from them and applyed himselfe to the next Magistrate. The Court discharged him He paying for a Gun which he had of the Country[s] Store and saith he disposed of it for his Support."

Court "Adjourned to Thursday the 23rd of January instant at nine in the morning and then met." It was ordered that "Thomas Pound, Thomas Hawkins, Thomas Johnston William Coward and Eleazer Buck, five of the condemned prison^{rs}," sentenced to be hanged by their neckes, "be executed on Munday next the twenty."

In the Documentary History of Maine, Vol. 5, there is an account of an expedition to Maine, by boat, which was ambushed by the Indians on Aug. 7th, 1691. "A list of men killed and wounded in y^{e} late Expedytyn Estward viz^{t}" includes the name "William Neff" without specifying whether he was killed or wounded, but since no further record has been found of him, it is assumed that he was killed.

3. MARY^{2} NEFF (William^{1}) was born 9 Nov. 1668 at Haverhill, Mass. (Haverhill Vit. Rec.); married 24 Nov. 1686, at Haverhill, MATTHIAS^{2} BUTTON (Haverhill Vit. Rec.), born 17 May 1657/58 at Haverhill (Vit. Rec.), the son of Matthias^{1} Button and his 3rd wife Teagle. Matthias^{2} died in 1725 at Plainfield, Conn. and Mary died there at a later date.

Matthias & Mary (Neff) Button lived at Haverhill first, but soon after 1690, they, in company with his sister Sarah and her husband James^{2} (Henry^{1}) Kingsbury and several other Mass. families, took the "Old Conn. Path" down to eastern Conn. where they took possession of the Quinebaug land east of the Appaquage or Little River which they had purchased from the sons of Gov. John Winthrop of Mass. This was the settlement of the town of Plainfield, Conn., the third town to be settled in Windham County. Disturbed and troubled times followed as this same tract of land was claimed by a group of Conn. men, headed by Messrs. Fitch and Tracy, who claimed the land had been given to them by the Indians. Fortunately their Indian neighbors, who were numerous, were friendly and willing to share their hunting, fishing and planting grounds with them. Eventually the claims of Mass. and Conn. men were straightened out.

Matthias Button and his wife were admitted to membership in the First Church of Stonington, Conn. May 16, 1697 (Ch. Rec. Vol. W, p. 190, Vol. 1, p. 10, etc).

At the time the town of Plainfield was granted a Town Charter in 1699, 15 men were listed as settlers there, among them Matthias Button. In 1704, Matthias Button was one of 24 proprietors who each received an allotment of 100 acres. In 1725 an epidemic of some sort hit the town and so many people were sick that neighboring towns had to be called upon for help. Many of the town's leading citizens died, including Matthias Button.

As proof that the Mary Neff who married Matthias^{2} Button was the daughter of William & Mary (Corliss) Neff of Haverhill, we have the following deed to be found in Vol. 67, p. 205 of the Essex County Land Records at Salem, Mass.

THE ANCESTRY OF MATTHIAS[2] BUTTON

Contrary to what some early writers would have us believe, Matthias[1] Button, born 1607, was christened 11 Oct. 1607 at the Parish Church, Harrold, England, the son of Thomas Button, an Englishman. Thomas Button was born about 1575 in England and died at Harrold, England 23 June 1617. This Thomas Button was a direct descendant of Sir Thomas Button who was appointed Bishop of Exeter, England, 25 Jan. 1292/3. (Inf. taken from Parish Reg. of Harrold, England).

Matthias[1] Button came to Salem 6 Sept. 1628 with Gov. John Endicott. He removed to Boston where he and wife Lettice had Mary, bp. 23 Feb. 1634 and Daniel bp. 22 Feb. 1635 at the 1st Church of Boston. Lettice died and Matthias[1] next appears in the Ipswich Town Records on 16 Nov. 1639 in the sale of "a houselot on High St."... "being granted at two several grants to John Thornton, deceased, and falling into the hands of the sayed Button by marriage of Joane, late wife of the sayed John Thornton"..."the sayed Matthias Button together with the consent of Joane his sayed wife doth quitt all title" etc. Matthias then moved to Haverhill where his name appears on a tax list in 1650. Mary, daughter of Matthias & Lettice married Edward Yeomans at Haverhill 6 Dec. 1652, and Sarah, presumably the daughter of Matthias' 2nd marriage, married James Kingsbury there 6 Jan. 1673 and were among the original settlers of Plainfield, Conn. No record has been found of the death of the first son Daniel nor of Matthias' marriage to his 3rd wife, Teagle _____ but at Haverhill, Matthias & Teagle had the following children: Hannah b. 11 May 1652, Daniel b 10 April 1654 and killed at the Bloody Brook Battle 18 Sept. 1675, Abigail b. 16 June 1656, Matthias b. 17 March 1657/8, Peter b. 17 July 1660 and Patience b. 1 June 1662 and d. Oct. 1662. Teagle died 4 Feb. 1663 and Matthias then married his 4th wife, the widow Elizabeth (Wheeler) Duston, 9 June 1663. Matthias[1] Button died 13 Aug. 1672 and Elizabeth, his widow died 16 July 1690. The foregoing data is from the Haverhill Vit. Rec. This 4th marriage of Matthias Button made Thomas Duston, son of Elizabeth, and his famous wife, Hannah Duston brother and sister-in-law to Matthias[2] Button and his wife, Mary[2] Neff. It was Mary (Neff) Button's mother who was captured with Hannah Duston at the time of the Indian Massacre of 1697. (See under William[1] Neff).

More space is devoted to the descendants of Mary Neff Button than might have been, because of the six children of William[1] and Mary Neff, it has been possible to trace the descendants of only two, Mary and Clement Neff.

Hannah, wife of Zadock Killam, dau. Miriam, wife of Daniel Amos of Preston, dau. Biah and her husband Elnathan Maynor of Windham and dau. Zipporah Thomas and her heirs. The estate was valued at £537:04:05, including the homestead at Preston at £400, a tract of land in Stonington £48:08:00, and various farm animals and personal and household items. This would indicate that Matthias Button was a very well-to-do man for those days.

The will of his widow, dated 18 Jan. 1772 is interesting because of its provisions. She bequeathed to "my beloved daughter Hannah Killam, 1 cow, the one half of my pewter and VIII. Zerviah[3] b. 13 Sept 1708; mar. 5 Oct. 1727, Daniel Lamb, the son of Isaac & Elizabeth Lamb. (Groton V.R. Vol. 1, p. 43). The estate and will of Daniel Lamb, folder #1856, Conn. State Library, show him to have been a well-to-do man for the times. His will was dated 18 Dec. 1770 and was probated in 1783. The estate was valued at £696:17:09 and included 170 acres of land and buildings at £510. He bequeathed to his "beloved wife Zerviah Lamb, to his son Daniel £15, to son Samuel all Lands, buildings, tools, etc., to daughter Zurviah Billings £12, to daughter Eunice Lamb household goods to equal those given to daughter Freelove Chapman and £12, to daughter Freelove Chapman £12, to granddaughter Anne Lamb, daughter of son Nehemiah Lamb deceased, lands given to her father. Son Samuel was to have the cattle, sheep, hogs, etc. and to be the Executor of the will.

4. JOSEPH[2] NEFF (William[1]) born 25 March 1670 at Haverhill, Mass; died 4 Feb. 1741/2. (Haverhill Vit. Rec). Joseph, so far as the records show, never married but continued to live all his life in Haverhill on the Neff farm of his parents and other lands which he acquired.

Joseph petitioned the General Court for a grant of land in consideration of his mother's services in assisting Hannah Dustin in killing "divers Indians." In his petition he declared that his mother was "kept a prisoner a considerable time" and "in their return home past through the utmost hazard of their lives and suffered distressing want, being almost starved before they could return to their dwellings." The Court granted Joseph Neff 200 acres of land in 1738 in return for Mary's heroism killing Indians.

Joseph purchased his brother Clement's share in the estate of their father, William Neff, and of their mother, Mary Neff, and also the share of his sister, Mary Neff Button, and her husband, Mathias Button. This seems to have taken years to accomplish, probably due to the difficulty of transmitting money and deeds to Haverhill, as Clement's deed was written in 1711 at Westerly, R.I., but neither this deed nor the deed from the Buttons was entered in the Haverhill, Mass. records until Dec. 25, 1734. (Essex Co. Land Rec. Vol. 67, p. 167 and p. 205). Joseph paid Clement 14 pounds and Mary 13 pounds.

On Feb. 19, 1719/20, "Mary Neff of Haverhill, the relict and widow of William Neff late of said Town of Haverhill deceased and Joseph Neff of Haverhill son of said Mary Neff of y^{e} County of Essex in the Province of y^{e} Mass. Bay" etc. sold about 20 acres of land to "Jonathan Hasletine son of Nathaniel Hasletine." On 10 Feb. 1723, several months after his mother's death, Joseph sold for five pounds to Philip Hasletine one acre 60 rods of land "in forme of a gore." Both of these deeds were recorded at Haverhill 1 July 1724. (Land Rec. Vol. 42, p. 235).

Capt. John White sold to Joseph Neff on 20 July 1723, for "forty & three pounds & ten shillings a certain piece of land containing about fourteen acres & a halfe which Capt. White had purchased of John Merrill and which Merrill had purchased of Capt. Simon Wainright, bounded partly by land of Corp. Samuel Ayer and partly by Hawks meadow way." (Haverhill Land Rec. Vol. 41, p. 103).

That Joseph was still taking care of his mother at the time of her death is shown by the account he rendered the Court "for taking care of his mother for two years together in her old age several of the last years of her life she being very weekly and indisposed ... which made it very troublesome and costly to get nursis and watchors so that I think I cant afford it." The total sum for nurses, funeral and Court expenses paid him by the Ipswich Court on 12 March 1724 was 118 pounds 20s.

The mystery is, what happened to the more than 200 acres of land etc. which Joseph owned when he died? There is nothing in either the Land or Probate Records of Essex Co. to indicate their having been sold or willed to anyone.

5. JOHN^{2} NEFF (William^{1}) b. 16 May 1672 at Haverhill, Mass. (Haverhill Vit. Rec.).

The only mention of John Neff which we have found was in the Coffin Papers Vol. 1, p. 42 (Joshua Coffin, Newbury historian). "Soldiers in the Canada Expedition - The names of such sold^{rs} y^{t} voluntarily listed o^{r}selves for y^{e} canada expedition out of maj^{r} S: regement.....John Neph. Y^{e} above nam^{d} sold. listed and was wth me from June 26 to July 4." No date given but the next date in the Coffin Papers is 1691.

6. CLEMENT^{2} NEFF (William^{1}) b. 29 March 1674, Haverhill, Mass.; died 3 June 1746, Stonington, Conn.; married MARY _____, possibly Mary Button b. 6 Oct. 1689, Stonington, Conn., the daughter of Peter^{2} Button (Matthias^{1}). Mrs. Neff died at Windham, Conn. in 1752.

It is interesting to speculate as to just when Clement Neff left Haverhill, Mass. Possibly he accompanied his sister, Mrs. Matthias Button (Mary Neff^{2}) and her family to Plainfield, Conn., in 1690 or perhaps he went directly to Westerly, R.I., or Stonington with Matthias' brother, Peter Button. He was in Westerly previous to 1708 as on 5 Apr. 1708 we find in the Westerly Land Records that "Thomas Reynalds of Westerly, yeoman" sold 50 acres of land to "Clement Neff of Westerly" for 13 pounds (Vol. 2, p. 208). On 9 Sept 1711, Clement paid 1s:9d for a share in common land at Westerly (Vol. 2, p. 115). Referring to a "List of Sales of Vacant Lands in Naragansett," we find that on 2 Oct 1711 there is a General Recorder's deed quit-claiming and confirming to 31 men of Westerly, one of whom was "Clemond Neff," 5300 acres as platted &c bounded southerly by the Pawcatuck river, easterly by Maxon's purchase, northerly by vacant lands and westerly by the Colony line. (Westerly L.R. Vol. 2, p. 113. See Potter's Early History of the Narragansett Country

p. 219).

An interesting deed appears in the Essex Co., Mass. Land Records, establishing beyond a doubt, the parents of the Clement Neff who went to Westerly, R. I., and Windhan, Conn. (Vol. 67, p. 167).

Before me Rich^{d} Abbe Justice of the Peace."

Clement Neff was proposed as a freeman of Westerly 28 Sept. 1715. However he did not tarry long to enjoy his new privileges, as on 23 March 1716, "Clement Neff of Westerly, cordwainer, sold a total of 63 acres for 125 pounds, to James Winslow, cordwainer, of Freetown, Colony of Mass." This deed was signed by Clement and Mary Neff. He then moved his family to the part of Windham (now Hampton) which had been recently opened for settlement.

The deed of Clement's first purchase of land in Windham is preserved in silk at the Windham County Court House, Willimantic, Conn. It is dated 28 June 1715, and says in part, "To all people to whom this deed of sale shall come greeting. Know ye that I Joseph Dingley of Windham in the County of Hartford in the Colony of Conn. for in consideration of the full sum of forty-two pounds current money of New England to me in hand" received from "Clement Neff late of Westerly in the Colony of Rhode Island in New England before but now resident in Canterbury in ye County of New London" etc.... "do fully freely and absolutely give grant bargain and confirm unto the s^{d} Clement Neff his heirs and assigns forever all that my hundred acre lot situat lying and being in the northe easterly part of s^{d} Windham and is the fourth lot in the second tear and the first bound begins at a walnut tree which is the east corner from thence runs westerly by the highway a hundred rod to a white oak stake from thence northerly by a hundred acre lot of Mr. Webb's and sixty rod to a sassifax from thence easterly by a hundred acre lot of M^{r} Sam Whitings a hundred rod to a stake from thence southerly by Christopher Bidlakes land a hundred and sixty rod to the first mentioned bounds," etc. The deed was witnessed by John Fitch and Joshua Ripley (Windham L.R. Vol. E, p. 147). Record of a second purchase of 100 acres for £34 from William More appears in Book E, p. 195.

Land was good, and it was cheap, in this northeast section of Windham and as word spread around about it, more and more people came to settle there. By early 1717, the inhabitants felt that they were numerous enough to have a church of their own and accordingly they petitioned the General Assembly as follows: "We, inhabitants of the Northeast part of Windham, having obtained the consent of the said Windham that we should be a society distinct for the carrying on of public worship of God, do now pray your Honors to confirm and establish us a parish," etc. There were 16 signatures, of which the ninth was Clement Neff. This petition was to create Canada Parish, April, 1717. The General Assembly acted with promptness in granting this petition. Canada Parish became the Town of Hampton, Conn., at a later date.

Three more purchases of land are recorded in 1723: 100 acres from Daniel Edward on 9 May for £27 (Bk. F, p. 77); 100 acres from Joshua Lassal on 16 July for £20 (Bk. F, p. 90); and a piece of land bordering on Merrick Brook containing 86⅔ acres from Joshua Lassal for £75 in the "west tear" in the "twelfe hundred lot" on 10 Sept. (Bk. F, p. 105).

At the Windham Town meeting on 4 Dec 1727, Clement Neff was elected Constable. His wife, Mary Neff, was baptized in Windham Village 13 Dec. 1724, and "owned the covenant" (Hampton Cong. Ch. Red.).

Of the 486⅔ acres of land which Clement bought at a total cost of £198, he sold an unspecified amount to Humphrey Bullard on 8 June 1717 for £39 (Bk. E, p. 197) and 100 acres to Joshua Lassal on 10 Sept 1723 for £20 (Bk. F, p. 109). On 22 Feb 1732, "Clement Neff of Windham" gave "for love to son William my 100 acre lot on which I now dwell that is the reversion right after my decease and the decease of his mother Mary, my wife, with all the buildings fences privileges in consideration of the help and comfort in my old age & the help he shall afford to his mother Mary - except some small legacies that are to be paid to his brothers and sisters as by other instruments may appear" (Bk. G, p. 188).

In the following year, June 1733, this son William was married to Grace Webster and in May 1734 their first child was born, creating the age-old problem of two families under one roof. So on 24 Sept 1734, William deeded his father's 100 acre farm back to him, referring to him as "my Honored Father Clement Neff" and on the same date Clement gave his son William the 86⅔ acre farm he had bought in 1723. The deed reads in part, "Clement Neff deed of gift to dutiful son William of Windham, land near Merrick's Brook...to my son William as his full portion of my estate." (Windham Land Rec. Bk. G, p. 304). A few months later, on 25 Jan. 1735, Clement sold his 100 acre farm which he lived on, to Benjamin Bidlake for £600. This gave Clement a net profit on his purchases and sales of land in Windham of £461 plus the 86⅔ acre farm which he gave to his son William.

Clement then moved his family to Stonington, Conn., where on 10 Feb 1735, he purchased "for a consideration of £600," a parcel of 300 acres of land from John Potter of South Kingston & Christopher Champlin of Westerly, both of the Colony of Rhode Island, & John Williams of Stonington, Conn. (Stonington Land Rec. Vol. 4, p. 499/500). Thanks to the mention of "Breakneck Hill" in Clement's will, the farm has been located on an old map. On current road maps, the farm is to be found on route 84 from New London, Conn., to Providence, R.I., just beyond where route 2 from Westerly to Norwich intersects it, and in that part of Stonington which is now the town of North Stonington, Conn. Apparently a large number of people lived in the northern part of the town in those early days; it led to the organization of the Congregational Church of North Stonington Society and eventually to its separation into a new town.

In December 1734, Clement's youngest son, Thomas, married Mary Corey at Westerly, R. I. and in December of 1735, his son Clement Neff Jr. married Patience Brown in the North Stonington Congregational Church.

There are several mentions of Clement Neff being a cordwainer which means a "maker of shoes." He appears to have been a very industrious and able business man for the times, somewhat reminiscent of his grandfather Corliss, for he was an excellent returned to Windham. Returning to a study of the Windham Land Records, we find that on 4 Feb. 1747 Mary Neff and Mary Neff, Jr., bought a "tract of land in Windham Township from Obadiah Johnson of Canterbury for £500." Deed also says "in ye 20th year of ye Reign of our Sovereign Lord, George ye 2nd of Great Britain." (Book I, p. 12). On 30 June 1747, Mary Neff and Mary Neff, Jr. deeded to Clement Neff 50 acres they had bought in June "in consideration of ye Love, Good Will and Affection that we have and do bear unto Clement Neff" etc. (Book I, p. 77). On the same day Mary Neff and Mary Neff Jr. bought from Zachariah Parker for £126 a tract of land on "Beaver Brook Hill." No acreage given. (Book I, p. 77).

Mary Neff Jr. married Christopher Lewis 23 Feb. 1750 at the Hampton Congregational Church, and it is presumed that the mother Mary then went to live with her son Clement, sometime within the next year. For on 23 April 1751, Mary Neff and Clement Neff Jr. sold 115 acres of land to Aaron Geer for 1500 pounds. (Book I, p. 542). On 8 June 1752, Mary and Clement Jr. sold 141 acres to Henry Farnum for 1300 pounds. (Book K, p. 102).

Mary probably died in the epidemic which took the lives of her two grandchildren, Hannah and Mathew, children of Clement Jr., in September of 1752. Mary Neff's will is filed at the Conn. State Library, No. 2826. Her will mentions "heirs of son William, heirs of son Thomas, and well-beloved and only son Clement."

THIRD GENERATION

9. WILLIAM[3] NEFF (Clement[2], William[1]), born 16 March 1708/9, Westerly, R.I. (recorded Windham V.R. Vol. A, p. 145); died March 1749, Windham, Conn.; married 11 June 1733, GRACE WEBSTER (Windham V.R. Vol. A, p. 145) born 18 Aug. 1713, Beverly, Mass. (Beverly, Mass. V.R.) and died before 1768 at Windham, Conn., the daughter of Benjamin and Ruth (Hebard) Webster. William Neff was baptized 24 June 1725 and O.C. Oct. 10, 1725, at the Hampton Congregational Church, Windham, Conn. (Ch. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 56 & 103).

On 22 Feb. 1732, William's father, Clement Neff, gave "for love to son William my 100 acre lot on which I now dwell with all buildings, fence privileges in consideration of the help and comfort in my old age and the help he shall afford his mother Mary," etc. In Sept. of 1734, William, who then had a wife and son Benjamin, deeded this farm back to his "Honored Father Clement Neff" and in return "Clement Neff by deed of gift to dutiful son William of Windham" gave him an 86½ acre piece of land bordering on Merick Brook, the "twelfe hundred lot" in the "west tear .... to my son William as his full portion of my estate." (Windham Land Rec. Bk. G, p. 304). William did not keep the farm his father gave him very long. On 21 Dec. 1736, he sold 30 acres of it for £6 to his father-in-law, Benjamin Webster (Windham Land Rec. Bk. G, p. 305). This must have been practically a gift, considering the way land values were soaring at that time. The remaining 56½ acres, William sold to Robert Durkee for £240 on 17 June, 1737, and on the same day he bought from Robert Durkee for £440, a tract of land on both sides of Little River, about 50 acres on one side and 60 acres on the other side. (Windham Land Rec. Bk. G, p. 439, 440).

A year later, 28 June 1738, William Neff sold for £156 in bills of Publick credit, to Jacob Preston, about 40 acres lying on both sides of the Little River. On 16 Feb. 1740, William sold 22 acres to John Bond for £300 (Windham Land Rec. Bk. H, p. 27). On 4 Feb. 1746, William bought for £340 in bills of old tenor, about 25 acres "Lying northwardly from Beaver Brook Hill in s^{d} Windham" and on 6 Feb. 1746 he gave "to the widow Mrs. Martha Masten of Windham" a £190 mortgage on another 25 acres "lying northwardly of Beaver Brook Hill" (Windham Land Rec. Bk. H, p. 451, 452).

N.B. This reference to the widow Masten is of especial interest as, on one day in 1940, when my father and I were trying to arrange furniture on the uneven floors of our 1760 house in Conn. and the chest of drawers insisted on tilting forward, my father laughed and said, "As my father would say, 'that bureau stands comin' like old M's Masten's bureau'". So the expression must have been a family joke handed down for 200 years!

An inventory of the estate of William Neff was taken 25 March 1749, after his death at the untimely age of 40 years. He left no will but administration was granted to "Grace Neff relict" on 11 April 1749 (See folder #2831, Probate Dept., Conn. State Library).* The Inventory taken by Simeon Robinson and Manoah Gennings is extensive and the items listed were valued at £250:16:16. No paper appears with the value of the house and farm, although at a later date, Benjamin, Thomas, Joseph and Ruth sold their share of it to their brother William Neff Jr. The inventory was extensive and included his horse @ £46 and such items of the times as Iron skillets, tramel, peuter plates and wooden dishes, a pillion, feather beds and bolsters, shoe-making implements, a warming pan, a woolin wheel, as well as many items of furniture, bedding, linens and cows and calves.

ANCESTRY OF GRACE WEBSTER NEFF

Grace Webster was a granddaughter of Benjamin Webster of Salem, Mass. who was wounded in the Great Swamp Fight against the Narraganset Indians, 19 Dec. 1675, when King Philip's power was broken. Benjamin Webster was credited under Capt. Samuel Appleton 10 Dec. 1675 for £04:16:10 (N.E. Hist. & Gen. Reg., Vol. 38, p. 441); on the roll of Maj. Appleton's Co. in the Narraganset Campaign, Jeremiah Swain of Reading Lieut. (Mass. Archives Vol. 68, p. 97) and also on Capt. Joseph Gardiner's pay roll 29 Feb. 1675/6 at £02:14:00 (Bodge p. 165). After his death, his widow Grace Webster married 2nd in 1700, Christopher Brown in the Quaker Church (Salem V.R.).

Grace Webster's father was Benjamin^{2} Webster, son of the above, who married 28 April 1712, the widow Mrs. Ruth Hebard Gray, at Beverly, Mass. (Beverly V.R.). Ruth Hebard, b. 6 Aug. 1683, Beverly, Mass. (V.R.); d. there 29 Feb. 1711/12 (V.R.) and they had Ruth Gray b. 1704/5 and John^{3} Gray b. 1707 who later moved to Windham, Conn. and witnessed the will of Benjamin^{2} Webster.

* On the same date Mrs. Grace Neff was appointed by the Court as guardian to: Ruth Neff aged 12 yrs. next May, William Neff aged 10 yrs. next May, Thomas Neff aged 4 yrs. next July, Martha Neff aged 7 yrs. next Oct. and Joseph Neff aged 3 yrs. next July, all minors and heirs to Mr. William Neff late of Windham deceased. The records concerning the estate and heirs of William Neff are to be found in the Windham County Probate Records, Special series, Vol. II, p. 215 & 222, on microfilm, Conn. State Library.

tract of land beginning at a corner of the land now belonging to David Canada Jr., eastward on Joshua Abbe Jr. to Ephraim Deans corner with the highway excepted," etc. "Mr. Clement Neff personally appeared" to enter the deed 10 July 1793. (Book U, p. 459). At this time Clement was 82 years old, so it is presumed he was turning over all his remaining property to his son John for enough cash to make him reasonably independent for the remainder of his life. These deeds show that 326 acres were sold while still retaining a considerable amount for this final sale to son John.

Clement Neff served in the French and Indian War. He is first listed in May 1755 in Capt. Slapp's Co., "in ye pay of New York in building Forts & removing Encroachments on his Majesties Lands to ye northward of Albany" (Conn. Hist. Soc. Coll. Vol. 9, p. 16), and again in Capt. Slapp's Co. Oct. 31 to Dec., 1755 (p. 71) and again in Capt. Slapp's 4th Co. Apr. 5 to Dec. 2, 1756 (p. 132). In the Campaign of 1757, he enlisted March 7th as a drummer, in Col. Lyman's Reg't., under Capt. Slapp. In the Campaign of 1758-61 (Vol. 10, p. 67) he again enlisted as a drummer in the Tenth Co. under Capt. Jedediah Fay.

On 12 Oct. 1757, Clement Neff deeded a piece of his farm to the Town of Windham to be used as a Burying Ground and the following deed is of interest. Windham Town Records Book L, pages 455, 456.

"To all People to Whom this deed of Gift Shall come know ye that I Clement Neff of Windham in the County of Windham in the Colony of Connecticutt in New England for sundry causes and good reasons me moving thereunto have therefore granted and do by these presents Bequeath unto Ebenezer Abbee, John Bond, and Oxenbridge Davis, Inhabitance of S^{d} town of Windham and to the Rest of the Inhabitance of S^{d} town forever a certain Peice of Parcel of Land Being and Lying within the Town Ship of Windham afore S^{d} and contains about one Hundred and Twelve Rods of Land and is part of the Farm I now dwell on and is abutted and bounded as Followeth. Thanks to this deed it has been possible to locate the farm lands of Clement Neff Jr. Anyone wishing to visit the place, should take the road to the Chewink Cemetery which turns off of the main road from Williamantic, Conn. to Providence, R.I., at the State Forest in Chaplin. Shortly before coming to the Cementery, one comes to a large barn on the left side of the road. Just before coming to the barn there is what looks to be an entrance road to a house well back from the road, on the right, but it is really the beginning of an old abandoned road which curves back thru the country. The road's outlines are still visible although the area is overgrown with grass and is now part of a pasture. After passing the house, the road curves to the left and slightly downhill with Beaver Brook on the left. In Clement's day, a church stood at the bend of the road, the Town Clerk tells me, and the home of Clement Neff Jr. was the first house beyond the church. Further along this road is the Burying Ground described in the foregoing deed, and next beyond that, was the farm where Clement's mother and sister lived when they first moved back from Stonington. But today, all the houses are gone and the Church and its records are gone. All but one or two of the gravestones are weathered down to stumps or have been carried off, so that the graves of Clement Neff Jr., his wife Patience, his mother Mary Neff and his children Hannah and Matthew are impossible to determine.

ANCESTRY OF PATIENCE BROWN

Patience (Brown) Neff's father was Eleazer Brown, born 4 Aug. 1670 at Lynn, Mass, the son of Thomas & Mary (Newhall) Brown. Thomas Brown was born about 1628 in England and settled at Lynn, Mass., where he married Mary Newhall who was born 1637, Lynn, Mass., the daughter of Thomas and Mary Newhall who were married in England. Thomas Newhall who came from Olney Parish, Buckinghamshire, England (Banks), landed at Salem in 1630 and, with his brother Anthony, went to Lynn in 1632 where he was a proprietor. His wife Mary d. 25 Sept. 1665. Thomas Newhall was a farmer and owned all of the lands on the eastern side of Federal St., as far north as Marion. His house stood on Federal St. He was a member of the Train Band at Lynn until 1649 and he died there 25 May 1674. His will mentions his daughter Mary's (Brown) "carfull attendance of me and great payns she has bin at with me" in his old age and he left her "a third part of the incress of my orchard for 7 years," a piece of "ground that lys on the other side of the brook at north end of my hows lott uppon condittyon that her hufsband doe bulld a dwelling hows uppon it," and a feather bed.

Patience Neff's father, Eleazer Brown, went to Stonington, Conn., with his brothers, Thomas Brown Jr. and John Brown, where they purchased a large tract of land. On the 18th of Oct. 1693, Eleazer Brown married Ann Pendleton (Stonington V.R. Vol. 2, p. 2) and they had 10 children: Jonathan, James, Eleazer, Annah, Ebenezer, Mary Hannah, Patience, Abigail and Ruth. Eleazer Brown was a farmer and stock raiser. He died 30 Nov. 1734 (Stonington V.R.). In his will (Folder #764, Conn. State Library) probated 1735, he left £20 to his daughter Patience.

Patience Neff's mother was Ann Pendleton, b. 12 Nov. 1667, Portsmouth, N.H. and d. 1727, the daughter of Capt. James Pendleton and his 2nd wife Hannah Goodenow (b. 28 Nov. 1639, Sudbury, Mass., dau. of Capt. Edmund & Hannah Goodenow). Capt. James Pendleton was b. in England abt. 1628, adm. fr. Watertown 10 May 1648. He lived at Sudbury, Mass. and Portsmouth, N.H., where he held many public offices and was a founder of the 1st Church of Portsmouth.

Capt. James Pendleton was the son of Maj. Brian Pendleton b. 1601/2 in England; d. 1680/1, Saco, Me.; mar. Elinor Price 22 Apr. 1619 at St. Martin's, Birmingham, England. Maj. Brian Pendleton was an eminent Puritan figure. He served as a Court Deputy, 1635, a proprietor of the Sudbury Plantations, Commander of the Sudbury (1634) and Portsmouth (1652) Train Bands, Portsmouth Selectman 1652-1662, Representative 1653-1663, Town Treasurer 1654-1663, and headed the Mass. Commission to receive the Main submissions. The Roll of the Ancient & Honorable Artillery Co. of Mass. 1637-1894 lists on page 5 Brian Pendleton as becoming a member in 1646.

Capt. James Pendleton settled on a 700 acre tract of land which his father purchased for him of John Paine of Boston, 12 June 1673, located at Westerly, R.I. The property was on the east side of the lower Pawcatucket River which later became the boundary line between R.I. and Conn. Here he was repeatedly elected Moderator of the Town Meetings. When he died 29 Nov. 1709, his will dated 9 Feb. 1702/3, mentioned his wife Hannah and 8 children. Ann and her husband Eleazer Brown received her father's home in Westerly as their share of the estate and they lived there for some years. About 1715, they moved back to Stonington and all rights which they and their children had in the Pendleton estate were sold to other members of the Pendleton family.

James and Sarah Kingsbury moved from Haverhill to Plainfield, Conn. before 1699 and were probably in the original group of settlers from Haverhill along with Mathias and Mary[2] (Neff) Button. Oliver was a great grandson of Henry Kingsbury who was of Ipswich in 1638. Oliver was a soldier in the last French and Indian War. "Oliver Kingsbury Departed this Life November y^e^ 27^th^ Day, A.D. 1760, Returning Home from y^e^ Campaign in 1760." (Plainfield V.R. Vol. 2, p. 67). 14. BENJAMIN[4] NEFF (William[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 16 May 1734 (Windham V.R. Vol. A, p. 145), baptized 28 July 1734, at the Hampton (Conn.) Congregational Church; died 25 May 1806 (Windham Probate Rec.); married 13 June 1754, ANNA (#21) NEFF (Hampton Cong. Ch. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 189) who was born 12 Aug. 1736, Stonington Conn. (Windham V.R. Vol. 1, p. 311) and died 11 Feb. 1814 (Probate Rec.), the daughter of Clement[3] and Patience (Brown) Neff.

Benjamin Neff was on the Lexington Alarm List of 1775, from the town of Windham (Conn. Men in the Rev. p. 26 and Conn. Archives Rev. War 1763-1789, Vol. 6, p. 8). At the Windham Town Meeting on 3 Dec. 1781, Benjamin Neff was elected one of the titheing men.

Benjamin Neff and his son, Oliver Neff, of Windham, sold to James Howard of Hampton and Zebulon Tracy of Windham a certain piece of land in Windham "a few rods east of the mills formerly known by the name of Gennings Mills, for the purpose of to and from s[d] mills & laying Logs and Timber Boards & Logway being butted and bounded as followeth: beginning at the north west corner of Neffs Orchard about 6 Rods south of the Saw Mill," etc. "Personally appeared M[r] Benjamin Neff Signer and Sealer Mar. 16, 1792," and "Personally appeared Oliver Neff Signer & Sealer of the foregoing May 31, 1792." (Windham Land Rec. Vol. S, p. 603).

The will of Benjamin Neff and the settlement of his estate is to be found in folder #2820 at the Conn. State Library, probated 29 April 1806. The will "bequeaths to my beloved wife Anna Neff all my moveable estate after my just debts and funeral charges are paid, to be hers and her assigns forever and I give and devise the use and improvement of all my real estate during her natural life and I do make and constitute & appoint her, the said Anna, to be the sole executor of this my last will and testament."

Feb. 5, 1812: "Anna Neff of Windham, for one dollar received of David Neff of Windham" deeded to David "land in Windham with dwelling house and contains about 15 acres of land, to have and to hold the above described premises for and during the s[d] Anna Neff's natural life and the s[d] David Neff on his part covenants with the s[d] Anna Neff that he will during her natural life maintain & support her and at all times furnish her with Drink, Food and Raiment, fire and firewood and comfort and sufficient for her support and convenience." Signed Anna Neff and David Neff (Windham Land Rec. Bk. W, p. 381). Perhaps this arrangement did not please Anna's other children, because we find that David Neff appeared in the Probate Court to complain that his mother was not capable of being the executor of his father's estate. "Anna Neff appeared in Probate Court with her attorney, Stephen Neff (her nephew) and desired to be excused." Jonah Lincoln and another were appointed to appraise and divide the estate. This distribution did not take place until 20 April, 1815, which was after Mrs. Neff's death. The real estate consisted of one acre and 53 rods valued at $400 and another piece containing 19 acres and 26 rods with the house which was valued at $700. It was divided among the children as follows: to Benjamin 1½A; to heirs of Aschel, deceased, 52 R; to heirs of Hannah Spalding, deceased, 2 pieces of land; to David 1A 16 R, with house thereon; to Thomas 2 3/4 A and 26 R; to Oliver 2 pieces containing 2A 9R; to Luther about 5A.

Rec., p. 62); married 20 April 1756, SOLOMON DEANS at Coventry, Conn. (Coventry V.R. Vol. D, p. 137), the son of Banajah & Mary Deans, born 15 Aug. 1733 (Windham V.R. Vol. 1, p. 140). Ruth (Neff) Deans died 20 Feb. 1770 at Stafford, Conn. (Stafford V.R. Vol. 2, p. 174) and Solomon married 2) the widow Anne ( ) Brown on 3 Dec. 1770 (Coventry V.R., Vol. D, p. 137).

16. WILLIAM[4] NEFF (William[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 14 May 1739; died 14 Jan. 1818, at 78 yrs. 8 mos. and is buried South Cemetery, Hampton, Conn.; married 1) MARY COBURN 28 Aug. 1761 (Windham V.R. Vol. B, p. 72, born 31 March 1740, the daughter of Samuel & Elisabeth (Nott) Coburn (Clark's Windham Fam. Pt. 1, p. 174); married 2) MARY UPTON, born 14 June 1761 (Windham V.R. Vol. 2, p. 112), the daughter of Ephraim Upton and his 2nd wife, Elizabeth Mainard, who were married 14 April 1757 (Windham V.R. Vol. 2, p. 112). Mary Upton Neff died 10 Nov. 1826 (Hampton Cong. Ch. Rec. Vol. 2, p. 129) and her will, Probate File #2827, Conn. State Library. William and Mary Neff were both members of the Hampton Congregational Church at Windham, Conn.

William served in the French and Indian War, enlisting on March 14th for the Campaign of 1757 and was a member of Col. Lyman's Regiment, Eighth Co. under Capt. John Slapp. He also served in the Campaign of 1758 in the 3rd Reg't. of Conn. Troops under Capt. Durkee of Norwich, Col. Eleazer Fitch's Nineth Co. He undoubtedly also served in the Revolution as he was but 37 years old when it started and it is known that all able-bodied men left their Windham farms to serve. Unfortunately, the records of many of these men from Windham, Conn. have been lost. But a family story says that a Neff cousin, who was a drummer, was at the Battle of Bunker Hill with John Neff #26. It was probably this William whose drum was later used by his son Salathiel in the Revolution.

William seems to have lived in Hampton on the farm previously owned by his father, with the exception of the part inherited by his sister Martha and husband, John Sessions. In a deed dated 28 Nov. 1769, "Wee Benj^{m} Neff, Thomas Neff & Joseph Neff all of Windham in the County of Windham, Colony of Conn. and Solomon Deans & Ruth Deans his wife of Stafford, Hartford County sold land jointly to their brother William Neff and brother-in-law John Sessions, both of Windham, "in equal proportion" ... "all our Right title & Interest & claim in one certain tract..of land in Windham, one equal sixth part of s^{d} premises, for £10." Deed dated 28 Nov. 1769 and entered 9 Apr. 1770 (Windham Land Rec. Vol. O, p. 145).

William Neff's will, written 29 Dec. 1817, is #2832, on file at the Conn. State Library.

"In the name of God Amen. I William Neff of Hampton in the County of Windham and State of Conn. at present Laboring under some indisposition of body but being possessed of a sound and disposing mind memory and understanding through the mercy of God make and ordain this my last will and testament....and in the first place I resign my Soul to Him who gave it....and as respects my earthly estate I dispose of it in the following manner viz 1st I give to my wife Mary all of my household furniture to have and to hold the same forever

Thomas Neff's father died when he was four years old. At first his mother was his guardian but on 26 Feb. 1760, the Court appointed Capt. William Durkee as his guardian (Special Rec. Vol. 3, p. 209). Thomas Neff

Apparently Thomas and Eunice Neff lived in Windham when they were first married as the birth records of Randolph, Vt., gives the birthplace and date of their first four children as "Windham, Conn." Perhaps they lived with Eunice's parents, as in 1769 Thomas had sold his share of his father's estate to his brother William. Only the baptismal records of the first two children have been found in Conn. in the records of the Lebanon First Church where they are listed under "Nest." Eunice Neff was admitted to membership in the Congregational Church of Windham, from Lebanon, 30 Oct. 1777.

On 2 July 1774, Thomas Neff bought 8½ acres of land from James Spalding for £20, bounded on one side by land of Robert Coburn and on the 3 other sides by land of Judah Bak; also 45 acres for £59 from David Huntington, in Windham but partly on the Mansfield line (Windham Land Rec. Vol. O, pgs 512 & 513). Here they lived until they went to Randolph, Vt., to live, perhaps in the spring of 1778. Sometime after the birth in Vt. of Amos in July 1781, the family returned to Windham to dispose of their Conn. property, returning to Randolph before 23 Aug. 1783.

While in Windham, Thomas Neff was elected a Grand Juryman at the Windham Town Meeting on 2 Dec. 1782. On 18 May 1782, Thomas Neff "sold for a consideration of £32 lawful money received from Thomas Davis of Windham a tract of land in Windham near my house where I now live containing 8½ acres and having a dwelling house thereon." On 10 April 1783, Thomas Neff of Windham sold to Nathaniel Walcott (first cousin of Mrs. Thomas Neff and father of Miriam Walcott who married #72 Joseph Neff) of Windham for £180 about 45 acres of land in the northerly part of the first Society in Windham, "being the farm on which I now dwell." This land was part of the estate of Capt. Samuel Brown, late of Norwich, given to his daughter Sarah Brown and described in Windham Land Rec. Liber M, pgs. 273 and onward, Neff having bought it from Sarah Brown (Windham Land Rec. Vol. R, p. 31).

The name of Thomas Neff first appears in the Randolph Land Records under date of 30 March 1797, as selling and also buying two small parcels of land on the same date. Under date of 9 May 1807, Thomas Neff deeded a farm of about 113 acres to Storrs Hall and in return Storrs Hall entered into an agreement with Thomas and Eunice Neff whereby the Halls (Storrs & Asenath) were to care for the Neffs during their natural lives. Later records show that Asenath Hall, widow of Storrs Hall, sold her father's farm in 1819, after the death of her father, Thomas Neff, and of her husband, Storrs Hall. Thomas Neff apparently owned land in Randolph before the Town began to keep Land Records.

ANCESTRY OF EUNICE (WALCOTT) NEFF

Eunice Walcott's maiden name presented a major problem and was learned only after a search of Randolph Land Records revealed the name of the husband of Thomas & Eunice Neff's daughter, Asenath, and a subsequent search of Vt. Vital Records tracing Asenath's three subsequent marriages. Asenath's death record at Brookfield, Vt., seems to be the only record in existence giving the maiden name of Mrs. Thomas Neff.

Eunice Walcott was the daughter of Stephen[4] & Mary or Marcy (Broughton) Walcott who were married 15 Nov. 1737. Eunice Walcott's brother, Elijah Walcott, went to Williamstown, Vt., from Conn., to live. Their mother was with him when she died, as we find this Vt. record, "Marcy Walcott of Hampton, Conn., died Williamstown, Vt., Mar. 8, 1803, aged 92-8-15." Stephen[4] Walcott was born at Salem, Mass., the son of Jonathan[3] Walcott. Stephen was an Ensign, Second Brigade, 4th Div., Militia of Mass. 1812-1814. Stephen's wife, Marcy Broughton, was descended from John[3] Broughton who married Tabitha Kingsley at Windham, Conn. in 1709, John[2] Broughton who married Elizabeth Woodruff in 1678, and John[1] Broughton who came on the "Thomas" from Gravesend, England in Aug. 1635, and wife Hannah Bascom.

Stephen[4] Walcott was the son of Jonathan Walcott Jr. b. Salem Village 1 Sept. 1670 and Priscilla Bayley, dau. of Joseph &

Priscilla (Putnam) Bayley of Newbury, Mass., who was b. 31 Dec. 1676 at Newbury. Jonathan[3] Walcott lived in Salem until 1713, then Boxford, Mass., until 1723 when he moved to Beaver Brook Hill, Windham, Conn., where he died 25 May 1745 (Windham Vit. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 179).

Jonathan[3] Walcott was the son of Capt. Jonathan[2] Walcott, b. 1639/40 in England and died 16 Dec. 1699, Salem, Mass. Capt. Walcott married 11 Dec. 1664 at Salem, Mass., Mary Sibley, the daughter of John & Rachel (Leach) Sibley, bp. 28 Sept. 1644 and d. 28 Dec. 1683, AE 39. John Sibley was born 1616, Glaston, England and died 1661, Manchester, Mass.

Capt. Jonathan[2] Walcott was the son of John Walcott born England and died Salem, Mass., the son of Bernard & Sarah (Gibson) Walcott.

Rec. p. 69); died Randolph, Vt. 30 Sept. 1807 (Clark); married ABIGAIL CABLES of Hartford, Conn., born 2 Jan. 1780 and died 20 Nov. 1878 (Braintree, Vt., V.R.). Joseph Neff and family lived in Braintree, Vt., a few miles from Randolph, Vt. and now a part of it. Joseph took the freeman's oath in 1801 at Braintree.

After Joseph's death, his widow, Abigail (Cables) Neff, married 2nd William Bass, born 8 Aug. 1771 and died 28 Oct. 1860 (Braintree, Vt., V.R.), the son of Deacon Samuel and Elizabeth (Brackett) Bass. Deacon Bass was born 22 Aug. 1747; died 23 Feb. 1840; married Elizabeth Brackett 29 Sept. 1772.

23. CLEMENT[4] NEFF III (Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1])

born 29 Aug. 1738, Windham, Conn.; died 1 April 1820, Hampton, Conn. at the age of 81 yrs., 7 months, 5 days; married 1) SUSANNAH ABBY, born 31 Aug. 1733, daughter of Benjamin and Prisella Abby, Willington, Conn. (V.R. Vol. TM, p. 84); died about 1774; married 2) PATIENCE DEAN 17 Nov. 1800.

Clement Neff III served in the French & Indian War Oct. 16 to Nov. 4, 1755, in the First Reg. under Maj. General Lyman and the 6th Co. under Capt. Ezekiel Pierce (Conn. Hist. Soc. Coll. Vol. 9, p. 16).

Clement Neff III appears to have lived on a farm until his first wife, Susannah, died, at which time, according to Clark's Windham Families, he went to sea, was taken prisoner and was carried to Algiers where he was a captive for 24 years, during 12 of which he never saw the sun. He also lost an eye during this period. The same story appears in the History of Windham County by Larned which quotes the Windham Herald as follows:

"MARRIED, last week, in the Episcopalian form by Timothy Larrabee, Esq., Mr. Clement Neff of Hampton to Miss Patience Dean of this town.

"N.B. Mr. Neff has been a prisoner in Algiers 24 years, in 12 of which he never saw the sun. He is now in the youthful bloom of 65 and has lost an eye - his bride is a blushing maid of 28."

This obviously refers to one of the numerous incidents where the pirates who infested the Mediterranean captured American ships and imprisoned American sailors.

THE NEFF POWDERHORN STORY

The powderhorn has been preserved by the descendants of #59 Amos Neff and the story passed from generation to generation in that branch of the family. It is presumed that Nathaniel gave the powderhorn to Amos in Vermont and the family took it along when they moved to New York State.

#69 Nathaniel Neff, like his father, went to sea and was captured by the Barbary Pirates and imprisoned in Algiers for four years. At first he was placed in one of the horrible dungeons but before long, since he was a strong young man, he was removed and used as a slave working on the docks. Escape was his constant thought and hope. Eventually, he was used to help unload supplies from a Yankee ship, and, watching for an opportunity to speak to the Captain, begged to be rescued. The Captain replied, "I can do nothing without getting myself and crew into trouble, but if you can manage to hide on board, I will not see you." So Nathaniel succeeded in hiding amongst the cargo and when the Pirates hunted over the ship for him, he was, fortunately, not discovered.

On the way home, the ship ran into a terrible storm off the coast of Maine and was shipwrecked. Nathaniel and several other sailors managed to cling to a large spar for days. The daughter of a light-house keeper is said to have dreamed for three consecutive nights about a ship-wreck and men who needed rescuing. She finally persuaded her father to take his boat and go out and look. One version of the story says only Nathaniel was found, clinging half-dead to his spar, while another version gives him two companions, all in serious condition from exposure and lack of food

Nathaniel Neff stayed at the light-house for a considerable period of time while he regained sufficient strength to return to Connecticut. He is said to have whiled away the hours, carving the Neff Powderhorn. The carving consists of what would appear to be two family crests, a three-masted sailing ship and some other items. Carved in the horn is also "N.N. June 29, 1807."

26. JOHN[4] NEFF (Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 6 May 1746, Windham, Conn. (Windham V.R. Vol. 1, p. 311); died 1822, Windham, Conn. (Probate Rec.); married about 1768 SARAH JENNINGS (Comm. Biog. Rec. of Middlesex Co., Conn., p. 612), born Windham, Conn., 1753 and died 26 Feb. 1842, ae 89 yrs., Chaplin, Conn. (Priv. Rec. Chaplin Town Clerk's Office), the daughter of John & Sarah (Kingsbury) Jennings. Mrs. Sarah (Jennings) Neff was married 2nd on 2 July 1826, Chaplin, Conn., to Mr. Oliver Rogers by John Ross J.P. (Chaplin V.R. Vol. 1, p. 7). Mr. Rogers was a neighbor, born 14 April 1748 (Windham V.R.), the son of Jethro & Hannah (Holt) Rogers. Oliver Rogers had married first, Hannah Coburn, 11 Feb. 1770 (Windham V.R.) and he died 1 April 1829, ae 80 yrs. (Norwich Courier). Sarah's son, Samuel Neff, was on the list of those to whom Mr. Rogers owed money, when Mr. Roger's estate was settled.

John Neff served all through the War of the Revolution and came home in 1781 broken in health, according to stories passed down in the family. It is known that almost every able-bodied man did serve year after year and that the women and children had such a difficult time trying to run the farms that committees were set up to try to see that no one starved. Sarah's grandfather, Capt. Joseph Ginnings was appointed a member of the committee at the Windham Town Meeting in Dec. 1778, "for Supplying the officers' and soldiers' families with provisions." But it is unfortunate that so many of the Revolutionary War records for Conn. have been lost. All we have been able to find of John Neff's War service is contained in the Trumbull Papers (Conn. Hist. Soc. Coll. Vol. 12, p. 294). "Those who served in the Continental Service in the 5th Brigade of Militia 1781. John Neff, Private, July 27 to Dec. 31, from Windham."

John Neff bought a large tract of land from his father, Clement Neff Jr., on 3 Nov. 1792 and an additional seven acres for £7 a few years later. John Neff's farm was in the part of Windham which is now Chaplin, in the Cheewink section. The road to the Cheewink Cemetery goes right past this property which extended on both sides of the road.

John Neff left no will but a record of the settlement of his estate is in folder #2824, Conn. State Library Probate Dept. His wife, Mrs. Sarah Neff, made application to the Court to appoint someone to settle the estate, as was the custom, and she signed it "Sary Neff." Witnesses were her children, Stephen Neff and Mary Neff. Stephen Neff and Levi Johnson were bonded for $800 to make the estate inventory. No heirs other than the widow were mentioned.

ANCESTRY OF SARAH GENINGS NEFF

Sarah Genings (Jennings) Neff was the daughter of John[3] Genings (Jennings, Ginnings), born 30 Nov. 1728 and died 18 July 1813, at Windham, Conn. (Windham V.R.). John Ginnings married 10 Jan. 1750, Sarah Kingsbury (Hampton 1st Ch. Rec. 1-188) born Plainfield, Conn., 23 Feb. 1732, the daughter of Samuel & Dorcas (Spalding) Kingsbury.

Some other accounts of this family credit John[3] Ginnings with marrying 2nd, Anna Backus in 1758 and 3rd, Mary Price in 1779. However, diligent research has shown that the John Ginnings who married these two women was the son of Joseph & Hannah (Thomas) Ginnings who moved to Windham from Middleborough, Mass. A deed dated 1760 has also been discovered in which Sarah (Kingsbury) Ginnings, wife of John[3] Ginnings, sold her Kingsbury inheritance (Windham Land Rec. Vol. M, p. 182) and there is still another deed as late as 1808 which proves that John[3] still had his first wife, Sarah Kingsbury, and could not possibly have married a 3rd wife in 1779. According to old deeds, when Hampton was set off from Windham in 1783, the new town line ran through John and Sarah Ginnings' property. After 1783, John is given as a resident of Hampton in land records and also in 1800 and 1810 censuses, although he appears in the 1790 census at Windham.

John and Sarah Ginnings had 4, and perhaps more, children born in Windham: Joseph born 4 Oct. 1750 (Windham V.R.), Sarah born 1753, Stephen born 1754/55 (under 45 in census 1800), Daniel born 1758 who died 31 Aug. 1830, possibly Phebe who married Samuel Kingsbury in 1778 (Windham V.R.) and others. From 1750 until long after the Revolution so much of the Vital record data is missing in the Windham records for those folks who lived in the areas which became Hampton and Chaplin, that one must rely on other sources of information.

Land records tell their story of family relationships amongst the Genings-Jennings family and their inter-relationships with the Neff and Kingsbury families. Stephen Ginnings is in the Land records from 1777 on, having some transactions with John Ginnings which look like father and son. In a deed dated 8 June 1793, Daniel Ginnings sold to Joseph Neff land, part in Windham and part in Hampton, "which I bought of my brother Stephen Ginnings, except for 6 or 7 acres of swamp already sold to John Neff" (Windham Land Rec. Bk. U, p. 323). John Neff was the husband of Daniel's sister Sarah and Joseph Neff was the oldest son of John & Sarah (Genings) Neff, returned in 1791 from service with the U.S. Army in the Ohio Indian country. Daniel Ginnings sold the above 6 or 7 acres of swamp to John Neff 8 March 1791, altho the deed was not recorded until 1795 and Joseph Neff was one of the witnesses to the deed. (Windham Land Rec. Bk. U, p. 458).

On 22 Sept. 1806, when he was 78 years old, John[3] Ginnings sold, for $80, his farm and house and 12 acres in Windham, "being all the land that I the said John Ginnings own (in Windham) to John Neff Jr.", his grandson (Windham Land Rec. Bk. Z, p. 362). Stephen Neff was the witness to this deed. John Neff Jr's. farm was bounded by the property of Calvin Backus, David Canada and John Hunt, heirs of John Canada. David Canada was a neighbor of John Neff Sr. and John Hunt was appointed, in 1822, guardian of Mrs. Samuel Neff's son, Orrin Hartshorn, by her first husband.

On 4 March 1808, a few days before he was 80 years old, John[3] Ginnings sold 22½ acres in Hampton to another grandson, Stephen Neff, for the sum of $200 and added this proviso, "reserving the use and improvement of the premises for myself and wife Sarah for and during the natural life of us and each of us providing we or either of us improve the same according to the rules of good husbandry." Recorded 26 Nov. 1808 (Hampton Land Rec. Vol. D, p. 273). John Ginnings died 18 July 1813, ae 85 years, 7 months and 18 days.

John[3] Ginnings' daughter, Sarah (Ginnings) Neff (Mrs. John Neff) followed an interesting family pattern in naming her children. She named her first son, Joseph, for her brother, grandfather and famous uncle, Capt. Joseph Ginnings. Then she named her second son for her brother, Stephen, and her first daughter for her grandmother, Dorcas (Spalding) Kingsbury, and her youngest son for her grandfather, Samuel Kingsbury. Another son was named John for her husband and father, and a daughter was named Sarah for herself, her mother and her grandmother Ginnings.

Mrs. Sarah Neff's father, John Ginnings, was the son of Joseph[2] Genings, born 23 Nov. 1685, Norwich, Conn.; died 11 March 1760, Scotland, Conn. (Gr. St.); married 31 Dec. 1707 (Windham V.R.) Sarah Geer, daughter of Jonathan[2] (George[1]) & Mary ( ) Geer. Joseph[2] Genings' birth is recorded at Windham, the son of Jonathan & Susannah (Wade) Genings.

In 1700, the General Court of the Colony of Conn. granted land to the veterans of King Philip's War. The land was located at Voluntown (volunteer-town). The Court order appears on p. 1, Vol. 1 of Voluntown deeds, and on p. 2 appears a "List of Names of English volunteers in the Narraganset War." Jonathan Gennings is #72 on this list and he was #35 on the list of those who "drew Cedar Swamp lots." John Williams bought from Jonathan Genings of Windham "being a volunteer in ye former Narragansit War" all right interest and title to land granted by the General Court, dated and acknowledged at Stonington 24 June 1701, price 40 shillings (Voluntown Deeds Vol. 1, p. 113).

Arnold and his family moved up to Bristol, Conn., where he is listed as living when the 1790 census was taken. He also owned land in Stonington where on 23 Mar. 1801, he bought 140 acres of land from Paul Palmeter (Stonington Land Rec. Vol. 14, p. 210).

Arnold Neff's will, in folder #2296 at the Conn. State Library, was written at Bristol, Conn., 15 July 1790. It bequeathed to his "well beloved wife Lo(u)is Neff the use and improvement of one-third part of my moveable estate during her life... To my daughter Eunice Crane, wife of Ebenezer Crane, 10 shillings money in addition to what has already been given..... To my grandson Nathan Crandall, my dwelling house and the rest of the estate." The home farm of about 60 acres was valued at £420 and additional land at £195. The executor of the estate was Jared Corey and the will

35. OLIVER[5] NEFF (Benjamin[4], William[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 1 Sept. 1761, Windham, Conn.; died 17 Dec. 1843 (Fam. Rec.); married about 1786/7, BETSEY BUTTON (Chaplin d. rec., son Horatio & Fam. Rec.) born 26 June 1771, the daughter of Daniel[4] and Elizabeth (Palmater) Button (see under #3 Mary Neff), of Stonington, Conn., and died 18 Dec. 1841. Both Oliver and Betsey Neff are buried at the Cheewink Cemetery, Chaplin, Conn. Their stone bears the following inscription:

"They were lovely and pleasing in their lives
And in their death they were not divided."

Oliver Neff served in the War of the Revolution, in Col. Chapman's Reg't., Capt. Rudd's Co., 2 Aug. 1778 to 12 Sept., 1778. This Regiment, under the command of the Hon. Major General Sullivan, participated in the attempt to dislodge the British at Newport, R.I. (Conn. Men in the War of the Revolution, p. 530).

In his application for a Pension (R7573), 14 June 1838, Oliver also swore to this service and 2 months in 1779 under Capt. Tinker and Col. Ephraim Storrs and another month in 1779 under Capt. Latham and Col. Ledyard. Sylvanus Colburn swore to this statement of Oliver's service, also. The pension was denied because somewhere between the ages of 19 and 77 years, Oliver had lost his discharge papers and could not prove three or more months of service.

Oliver Neff bought a house and 22 acres of land from Matthias Cory 1 April 1815 (Windham Land Rec. Vol. D, p. 520). He also sold land, with his father Benjamin Neff, near the old Gennings Mills in 1792 (Vol. S, p. 603) and one acre 53 rods to his brother, Benjamin Neff, "on the line between Mansfield and Windham, in Mansfield, on the Natchaug River on April 28, 1806" (Vol. W, p. 235).

On 27 July 1819, David Neff sold to Elisha Chester, land in Windham bounded partly by the land of Benjamin Neff and partly by land of James Spalding for $250. This sale included David's interest in the saw mill yard, so-called, before distribution of the estate of his father, Benjamin Neff, deceased. (Windham Land Rec. Vol. 26, p. 155). On page 158 of the same volume is a deed in which David sold more land bounded partly by that of Benjamin Neff on the east, northerly by the Spalding heirs and westerly by the Mansfield line, 27 July 1819. On 30 Mar. 1816, Appollos Button sold David the land set off to Luther Neff "lawful heir to Benjamin Neff" said land lying on the east side of the Nachaug river in Chaplin Soc. (W-445). Previous to the above sales David had bought from his mother, Anne Neff, the home farm of his father and mother "land in Windham with dwelling house and contains about 15 acres, to have and to hold the above described premises for and during my, the s[d] Anne Neff's natural life and the s[d] David Neff on his part covenants with the s[d] Anne Neff that he will during her natural life maintain & support her and at all times furnish her with Drink, Food and Raiment, fire and firewood and comfort and sufficient for her support and convenience." Dated 5 Feb 1812. This was later set aside and the land divided.

When the census of 1860 was taken, Olive was living with their son, Luther Neff, at Taylor, Cortland Co., N.Y. and had been there 4 years according to the local 1855 census.

Luther sold his share of his father's, Benjamin Neff's, estate in Windham, on 14 Mar. 1815, to Appollos Button who had married Luther's neice, Anna Neff. The deed states Luther was living at Stephentown, N.Y. at that time. (Windham Land Rec. Vol. W, p. 421). He must have moved westward in N.Y. state as there is no record today of his having lived in Stephentown, N.Y. On 9 June 1848, Luther Neff bought lot # 6, 75 acres, in the town of German in Brakel Township, Chenango Co., N.Y. (Chenango Co. Land Rec. in Co. Clerk's Office, Bk. 78, p. 3). 41. DANIEL[5] NEFF (William[4&3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 1 July 1763 (Windham V.R. Vol. B, p. 72); died prob. Jan. 1796, Rutland, Vt. (Probate Rec.); married 13 Jan. 1785, SILENCE BRADLEY, "he of Windham and she of Enfield" (mar. rec of Rev. Nehemiah Prudden, 1st Ch. of Enfield, Conn. quoted in Hist. Enfield, Conn. by Allen, Vol. 2, p. 1500).

Silence Bradley was born 20 Aug. 1762, Tolland, Conn., the daughter of Henry and Silence (Meacham) Bradley (Tolland, V.R., Vol. 2, p. 121). "Hennery Bradley" of Tolland, Conn. married Silence Meacham of Somers 20 Sept. 1750 (Somers V.R., Vol. 1, p. 20). Henry Bradley was born 3 May 1729, Tolland, Conn., the son of George and Hannah (Braman or Bryman) Bradley (Tolland V.R., Vol. 1, p. 22).

Daniel Neff enlisted as a Private in the Revolution on 3 July 1781, for 6 months, from Windham. He was in the 4th Conn. Reg't. under Col. Zebulon Butler.

Daniel Neff and family moved to Rutland, Vt. where he died either in Dec. 1795 or early Jan. 1796 as Administration of the "Estate of Daniel Neff, late of Rutland, deceased, was granted to the widow Silence Neff," (Rutland Probate Rec., Vol. 3, p. 107) when the Court met 13 Jan. 1796. Apparently things had not gone well with them in Vt., as he died at the age of 33 years and his estate was insolvent, so no heirs were mentioned except the widow. In the Rutland Prob. Rec., Vol. 3, p. 276, we find mention of his son Daniel Neff, Jr. "Daniel Neff, a minor now residing in Wallingford, Vt., chose Stephen Bradley to be his guardian on May 30, 1801."

The names of only two of Daniel and Silence B. Neff's children are known:

112 i. Daniel b. 1786/7.
113 ii. William

N.B. In 1809, Daniel Neff, b. 1786, signed a petition for a tax on Mt. Tabor, Vt., for a road from Mt. Holly to Danby, via Mt. Tabor. This Daniel Neff may have migrated to Madison Co., N.Y. and been the father of Adley A. Neff who died at Bainbridge, N.Y., 21 March 1894, aged 81 years. Adley Neff married Cynthia Cotton who died at Bainbridge, 12 July 1893, aged 82 years, the daughter of Aaron Cotton. Adley and Cynthia (Cintha) had a son, Alfred D. Neff, b. 1851 and died 14 Feb. 1896, Bainbridge, N.Y.

42. SALATHIEL[5] NEFF (William[4], William[3], Clement[2], William[1]), born at Windham, Conn. (part now Hampton), 20 March 1765 (Windham V.R. Vol. B, p. 72); died Windham, 20 Sept. 1828; married at Windham, 31 Dec. 1789, MARY DINGLEY MARTIN born 12 July 1770 and died 18 Jan. 1856 at Windham, the daughter of (Deacon) William and Naomi (Upton) Martin. On June 25, 1798 Deacon Martin and his wife Naomi gave for "natural love and affection which we have for our daughter Mary D. Neff 102 acres of land in Hampton, 2 rods south of Mr. Salathiel Neff's house" (C-438). In 1789 William & Naomi Martin sold land to William Neff (A-320).

Salathiel served as a private in the Revolution in the 4th Reg't. under Col. Zebulon Butler. He enlisted 3 June 1781 for 6 months from Windham, commenced service July 3 and was discharged 20 Dec. 1781 (Conn. Hist. Soc. Coll. Vol. VIII). He was 16 yrs. old at this time and enlisted as a drummer boy.

He was admitted a freeman in Hampton 1818 (V.R. Vol. TM). He was a farmer. Salathiel and Mary were living with their son, Minor Neff in 1850.

ANCESTRY OF MARY DINGLEY MARTIN

Jerusha Durge or Durkee, 1 Apr. 1729, Windham, Conn. (V.R. Vol. 1, p. 76). 4. Deacon William Martin, a cooper, b. Windham, 11 Mar. 1736 (V.R. Vol. 1, p. 163); mar. 3 Mar. 1757 at Windham (V.R. Vol. 2, p. 54), Naomi Upton b. 29 Apr. 1741, Windham (V.R. Vol. 1, p. 154).

Durkee Family. 1. William Durgey b. Ireland, mar. at Ipswich, Mass., 20 Dec. 1664, Martha Cross, the dau. of Robert and Hannah (Jordan) Cross. 2. William Durkee b. abt. 1672; mar. (int. 18 Jan. 1704, Ipswich) Rebecca Gould, the dau. of Henry and Sarah (Ward) Gould who were mar. 20 Sept. 1675, Ipswich. 3. Jerusha Durkee b. 12 Aug. 1710, Windham (V.R. Vol. 1, p. 25); man 1 Apr. 1729 at Windham, Ebenezer Martin, above.

William Durgey #1, was a Catholic, Irish political prisoner, captured and sold into slavery in Barbados by Cromwell's forces. When freed in 1663 by King Charles II of England, the prisoners were left without food, money or job and many sold themselves as servants to New England merchants. William Durgey sold his services to an Ipswich merchant named Bishop. He married Martha, dau. of Robert Cross in spite of her parent's opposition. Because of his Catholic faith, he was in constant trouble with the Puritans. It is not known where he died. Martha (Cross) Durgey brought her children up to be good Puritans. They changed their name to Durkee when they went to Windham and here they became a wealthy, for those times, and influential family. (See also Elizabeth Durkee who mar. David Fiske under #73 Stephen Neff.)

William[2] Durkee, father of Jerusha, was one of the signers of the petition to the General Assembly for the formation of Canada Parish, with Clement[2] Neff, and also one of the signers of the Church Covenant when the minister was ordained.

Upton and Dingley Families. Naomi Upton, wife of Deacon William Martin, above, was the dau. of Ephraim and Mary (Dingley) Upton who were mar. 31 Dec. 1731, Windham (V.R. Vol. 1, p. 154).

Mary Dingley was b. 12 Nov. 1712, dau. of Joseph and Katharine (Waldo) Dingley (Windham V.R. Vol. 1, p. 154) who were mar. 2 Nov. 1702 (Windham V.R. Vol. A, p. 33).

Joseph Dingley was one of the early settlers in Windham. In 1696 he occupied the allotment purchased by Capt. Josiah Standish of Duxbury in 1686 of Capt. James Fitch. An interesting note on the houses the people lived in at that early date is contained in the instructions to the committee which was to try to secure the services of a Mr. Whiting to serve as minister of Windham's first church in 1696. Among other things, they were to offer him a house, two stories high and 18 feet square, "said house in capacity like Joseph Dingley's, provided he would stay 4 years." In a town election in 1698, Joseph Dingley and Joseph Hall were elected collectors for the minister.

On 30 Jan. 1700, the front part of William Backus' home-lot was purchased by Mr. Whiting and Ensign Crane for "a meeting-house plat or common." This was the beginning of Windham Green on which the first Windham Meeting house was erected soon afterwards. The church was organized in what was known as the Dingley house about a mile north of the Green. In 1704 Joseph Dingley was appointed highway surveyor, from the north end of town to the meeting house. In Feb. 1706, the Windham proprietors granted to Joseph Dingley and three others "the privilege of the stream at Willimantic Falls to build a mill or mills...north side of the river, so long as they or their heirs shall keep and maintain a good and sufficient mill, not obstructing said proprietors from granting a like privilege to others at other places on the river; also liberty of ditching and damming; also improvement of 40 acres of land near Willimantic Falls; timber free so long as ye land is left unfenced, etc." The mill was built and eventually owned by Thomas Hartshorn, millwright, of Charlestown, Mass., said to be the first white settler in Willimantic.

In 1713 a second and larger Meeting House was built in Windham. The aging Joseph Dingley was allowed to sit in the pulpit because of his deafness, while his son, Eleazer Dingley, sat in the "3rd front seat" and his wife "in the corner seat answerable thereto."

55. ASENATH[5] NEFF (Thomas[4], William[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 9 Jan. 1774, Windham, Conn. (Randolph V.R.); died 26 Jan. 1860, Brookfield, Vt.; married 1st at Randolph, Vt., STORRS HALL[6] (Nathaniel[5&4], Theophilus[3], William[2], John[1]), born 5 Jan. 1770, Lebanon, N.H. and died 12 Oct. 1813 (Gr. St. Randolph, Vt., Center Cem.).

Storrs Hall's father, Nathaniel[5] Hall, married 18 Feb. 1768 Mehitable Storrs, daughter of Cornelius Storrs of Mansfield, Conn. Mehitable died 13 Nov. 1830. Nathaniel[5] Hall was a soldier in the Revolutionary War and was present at the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga. He held the rank of Capt. of Militia.

Asenath Neff Hall married 2nd, 27 June 1820, Randolph, Vt., ISAAC S. PALMER, and was probably the 3rd wife of Deacon Isaac Plamer, who died Randolph, 1 Oct. 1820. Asenath (Neff) (Hall) (Palmer) married 3rd, 14 Dec. 1823 ABNER NICHOLS of Braintree. Abner Nichols was b. 9 Feb. 1769, Royalston, Mass., the son of Isaac and Dorcas (Sibley) Nichols. His first wife was Molly Nichols, his cousin. Abner was an older brother of Rev. Ammi Nichols, b. 1781, the first settled minister of the Braintree Congregational Church.

Abner and Asenath (Neff) Nichols resided, during their later years, at Brookfield, Vt. Abner Nichols died 16 Dec. 1854, aged 86 (Gr. St. Hill Cem., Braintree, Vt.) and Mrs. Asenath Nichols died 26 Jan. 1860 (Brookfield Town Records). This death record states that she was born at Windham, Conn., the daughter of Thomas Neff and Eunice Walcott. This is, perhaps, the only record of the maiden name of Mrs. Thomas Neff, mother of Asenath. It certainly is the only record found by the author after extensive research.

Samuel Bass and Thomas Neff were witnesses to the second purchase (Braintree, Vt. Land Rec. Vol. 2, p. 482 and Vol. 3, p. 132). On 8 June 1821, Amos Neff sold the North half of lot #50 to William Flint although the deed was not recorded until Mar. 1827. On 9 Oct. 1827, Amos Neff, giving his residence as Collins, Erie Co., N.Y., sold other land in Braintree (Vol. 4, p. 347). So sometime between 1821 and 1827, Mr. Neff had moved his family to N.Y. 67. BENJAMIN[5] NEFF (Clement[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born Windham, Conn.; died before 1810, Bethel, Vt.; married SARAH CRANE born 4 Sept. 1770, Mansfield, Conn. (Mansfield V.R. Vol. D, p. 52), the daughter of Ebenezer and Sarah (Curtis) Crane. Sarah (Crane) Neff died 3 Nov. 1851, Bethel, Vt.

Benjamin Neff and his wife Sarah were living in Bethel, Vt. at an early date, by 1790 according to the History of Braintree, Vt. A deed in the Bethel Land Records refers to him as "Benjamin Neff of Bethel" in 1802. On 1 March 1802, Benjamin obtained a parcel of lease land of 100 acres under an elaborate rent agreement signed by three Selectmen of Bethel (Vol. 2, p. 250). The land he leased was "Lot #6 in Grate Gore," a triangular shaped piece of land which had been set aside for school use, at the foot of Mt. Olympus (named, so the local story goes, by Gen. Israel Putnam during a surveying expedition). The land is owned in 1951 by Mrs. Raymond Campbell. On 9 July 1804, Benjamin sold this lease to Socrates Swift for $60 and on 12 Jan 1805 purchased for $230, another farm in "Lot #27, in the Second Range West of the Branch, being the North half of s[d] Lot." The land records show that Benjamin Neff did a good deal of buying and selling of land in Bethel and that he must have been a man of considerable means. The lands he owned were what was known as "upland" farms where the forest was not so dense and so was easy to clear, and where tremendous crops of wheat grew with very little effort on the part of the farmer.

The Crane Gen. by E.B. Crane may be consulted for the ancestry of Sarah (Crane) Neff.

William[1]) born before the Revolution, probably Hampton, Conn.; died ; married SUSANNAH ABBEE, born 15 Nov. 1760 (Windham V.R. Vol. 2, p. 74), who was the daughter of Isaac and Eunice (Church) Abbee. Isaac married Eunice Church March 1753 and died April 1788. The proof of this marriage of Clement Neff and Susannah Abbee, daughter of Isaac Abbee, appears in the Windham Land Records Vol. W, p. 91 and 92 of Apr. 12 and 23, 1798, when Clement and Susannah, his wife, and other heirs of Isaac, sold their share of "our father's estate" to Susannah's brother Isaac Abbee Jr., also in Clark's Windham families. The latter is the source of the names of their children.

See Abbe and Abbey Gen. by Abbe and Nichols.

The Census of 1810 at Braintree, Vt., credits Clement IV with two boys and four girls under 10 years of age. The names of only three are known.

72. JOSEPH[5] NEFF (John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 2 Dec., 1769, Windham, Conn. (gr. st.); died 8 May 1862 Burlington Green, N.Y. (gr. st.); married 1791 MIRIAM WALCOTT born 4 May 1774, Windham, Conn. (Windham V.R. Vol. 2, p. 107) and died 11 Feb. 1837, Burlington Green, N.Y. (gr. st.), the daughter of Nathaniel and Lydia (Flint) Walcott. Both Joseph and Miriam were buried on their farm at Burlington Green, N.Y. with well marked stones. After Miriam's death, Joseph married 2) Sally _____ born Mass. 1795 (Census 1850).

Joseph Neff was one of the few survivors of Col. Harmar's defeat in 1790. After the Revolution, British agents kept stirring up the Indians against Americans in the Ohio country. In the spring of 1790 the trouble developed into open hostilities; efforts for a peaceful settlement had proved fruitless. Several American forces were ambushed and destroyed. Joseph Neff enlisted at Hartford, Conn. in June 1788 and served as a private in Capt. John Pratt's Co. under Lieutenant-Colonel Josiah Harmar with the 1st. United States Reg't. until Jan. 1, 1790 when he was transferred to Capt. Beatty's Co. and served in that until his discharge 4 Dec 1790 at Fort Washington, Cincinnati, Ohio. Col. Harmar was sent into the Indian country north of the present city of Cincinnati, with quite a strong force, to desolate Indian villages and crops. He succeeded, but in two battles on Oct. 17 and 22, 1790, near Ft. Wayne, Ind., he was defeated with considerable loss.

Under the act of 28 Sept 1850, Joseph Neff applied for and received Warrant 25,719 for 160 acres of Bounty land at Burlington, N.Y. because of the above service.

After his discharge, Joseph returned to Conn. where he married Miriam Walcott in 1791 and they went to Burlington, N.Y. to live. After a few years they sold this farm and bought another farm about a mile and a half south of Burlington Green, N.Y. They are buried in the old apple orchard on this farm which adjoined the farms of Elisha Pratt, Jeremiah Pratt and Theodore Utley.

Joseph was a celebrated violinist, much in demand at the old time parties. George Neff #618, also a celebrated square dance violinist, was told a great deal about Joseph and his violin playing and his moving to New York state by his grandfather, Solomon Neff #179, when George was a young boy.

Descendants of Joseph recount the story of Joseph's going away to fight Indians, and of how he returned and was not recognized by his mother.

"Mother, don't you know me?" Joseph asked.

"If you are my son, take off your shirt," she replied. "When you were a baby, your shoulder was burned by the fire. If you have a scar, you are my son."

ANCESTRY OF MIRIAM WALCOTT

MIRIAM WALCOTT was the great-great granddaughter of Capt. Jonathan[1] Walcott, b. 1639/40 and d. 16 Dec. 1699, who married on 11 Dec. 1664 at Salem, Mass., Mary Sibley, dau. of John and Rachel Sibley, bp. 28 Sept., 1644 and d. 28 Dec., 1683 ae 39.

Miriam's great-grandparents were Jonathan[2] Walcott, b. Salem Village 1 Sept., 1670 and Priscilla Bayley, dau. of Joseph and Priscilla (Putnam) Bayley, of Newbury, Mass., b. 31 Dec. 1676 at Newbury. Jonathan lived in Salem until 1713, then Boxford, Mass. until 1723 when he moved to Beaver Brook Hill, Windham, Conn. Jonathan Walcott d. 25 May 1745 (Windham V.R. Vol. 1, p. 179).

Miriam's grandparents were Joseph[3] Walcott, bp. Boxford, Mass., 31 Aug. 1718, and Sarah Walden of Windham, Conn., mar. 27 Apr. 1731 (Mansfield, Conn. V.R. Vol. D, p. 293). They lived in Mansfield until 1756 when they moved to Windham.

Miriam's parents were Nathaniel[4] Walcott, b. 27 Oct. 1741, Mansfield, Conn., and Lydia Flint of Windham, who were mar. 4 Nov. 1764 (Windham V.R. Vol. 2, p. 107). In 1767 he bought 30 acres of land "toward Scotland", Conn. and later bought more land there and lived in Windham as late as 1790.

Nathaniel Walcott is listed as one of the "Conductors of Teams for Transporting Supplies from Conn. to the Continental Army in 1777," (Conn. Men in the War of the Rev. p. 627). A footnote on this page says: "In regard to transporting supplies to the army, Asst. Quartermaster Ralph Pomeroy at Hartford writes to Quartermaster Gen. Pickering in the field, July 15, 1781, 'There are 3 Brigades of Teams with Conductors, and another Brigade with the Provisions with orders to unload and lend wheels as occasion may be. The pieces of Artillery are drawn - six, by 8 yoak of oxen each, one by seven, and one by six; these teams will have to return for their carts which come from the North River.'"

73. STEPHEN[5] NEFF (John[4], Clement[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born Windham, Conn., 1773; died 20 Sept. 1849, ae 76 years (Windham V.R. Vol. 4, p. 156); married about 1801 AMELIA EMILY FISKE (called Molly) born 1784, Windham, Conn. and died Vienna, Mich., after 1860, the daughter of John & Eunice (Jennings) Fiske.

Stephen Neff served in the War of 1812 under Charles Palmer at New London, June 7 to July 7, 1813 (Conn. Men in the War of 1812). He was a cooper and farmer and from the Windham Land records it appears that he owned a great deal of property. A descendant of his brother says that Stephen was a very well-to-do man and the owner of many fine horses. He owned a thousand acres of woodland and had a large Cooper's Shop where he always had at least 4 apprentices working, helping make barrels, cisterns etc. from the fragrant Conn. cedars. His purchases and sales of land are almost too numerous to note more than a few. However, he sold the 113 acre farm on which he lived, which was partly in Chaplin and partly in Windham, to Roger and Solomon Taintor 4 Oct. 1823. Then the older boys, William and Waterman, built the family a house in N. Windham.

ANCESTRY OF MOLLY FISKE NEFF. ALSO THE WIVES OF #77 AND #78.

FISKE FAMILY

Molly's father was John[5] Fiske, the son of Jonathan & Elizabeth (Scott) Fiske, born 22 Jan. 1761, Windham, Conn. (Rev. Pension Papers); died 28 April 1834, Chaplin, Conn. (Chaplin V.R.); married 1 Nov. 1799, Eunice Jinnings (Pen. Papers), born abt. 1755, Wincham, Conn., the daughter of Manoah & _____ Ginnings. Eunice stated whe was 83 years old in 1838 when she applied for a widow's Rev. War Pension. John seems to be the one who dropped the "e" on Fiske.

John Fisk served in Gen. Wooster's 1st Reg't., 3rd Co., May to Dec. 1775 at the Siege of Boston (Conn. Men in the Rev.) and in 1776 in Col. Burrall's Reg't. (Conn. Hist. Soc. Coll. Vol. viii). He also served as a private with Conn. Troops in May and June 1777 under Capt. Samuel Bingham and from the last of June 1778 as a substitute for Jonathan Fiske for four months under Capt. Ebenezer Mosely and Col. Ely. (Nation. Archives W17 900). Pension Certificate No. 17018 was issued 11 July 1833 to Johh Fish (altho application was signed Fisk), rate $20 a year, Act of June 7, 1832, Conn. Agency. Certif. No. 675 was issued July 1, 1843 to Eunice Fish, widow of John Fish, Act of March 3, 1843, Conn. Agency.

John Fiske was a celebrated singer and a farmer living in the part of Windham which is now Chaplin. He lived on Parish Hill on the road from Chaplin to Windham. He was a descendant of Lord Symond Fiske, Lord of the Manor of Standhough, Parish of Laxfield, Co. Suffolk, England who lived in the reigns of Henry IV and VI (1399 - 1422). (For full details, see Fiske Gen. by F.C. Pierce). John[1] Fiske b. 1619 in England mar. 1651, Sarah Wyeth and settled Watertown, Mass. where he d. 1684. John[2] Fiske lived Watertown and Waltham, Mass. David[3] Fiske moved to Windham, Conn. where he mar. Elizabeth Durkee in 1723, dau. of Deacon John Durkee of Gloucester, Mass. and Windham, Conn. His will, dated 10 March 1747/8, is in folder #1340, Conn. State Library. His estate was valued at £751:17, not including real estate, showing him to have been a wealthy man for those times. Jonathan[4] Fiske b. 4 July 1731, Windham, Conn.; d. there 15 Feb. 1761; mar. 9 Aug. 1750 Elizabeth Scott, b. 4 Aug. 1726, the dau. of Henry & Mary ( ) Scott of Canterbury (Canterbury V.R. Vol. 1, p. 216).

My father often told me about the three Neff brothers who married three Fiske sisters. The will of John Fiske, folder #1342, Conn. State Library, proves the story, as follows:

"In the name of God amen, I, John Fisk of Chaplin in the County of Windham and State of Conn., being of sound and disposing mind and memory do make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner and form following. That is to say I will that all my debts and funeral charges be paid and discharged by my executor hereinafter named. Item first I give and devise the use of all my property both real and personal to my beloved wife Eunice Fisk during her natural life for the purpose of securing to her a good and reasonable support and after the decease of my wife Eunice, I will that my executors pay out of said property to my son Charles Fisk the sum of $1 and to my son Vine Fisk $1, to my olders daughter Amelia Neff, wife of Stephen Neff, $1, and all the rest of my property, both real and personal, to be equally divided between my son David Fisk, my daughter Sophia Neff, wife of Elkanah Neff, and my daughter Polly Neff, wife of Samuel Neff, and my grandson Clark Abbe. Lastly I appoint and constitute Mr. Matthew Smith executor of this my last will and testament in witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 21st day of April A.D. 1834.

Signed John Fisk."

Clark Abbe married Mary Neff, oldest dau. of Stephen & Amelia (Fisk) Neff. John & Eunice Fisk had four sons: David Fisk who married Polly Neff, dau of #26 John Neff; Vine Fisk mar. the widow Cynthia ( ) Rogers (Scotland Cong. Ch. Rec. Vol. 3, p. 18); Nathan, not mentioned in his father's will, probably because he went to Vermont in 1824, and Charles. Nathan Fisk mar. Eunice Ford of Hampton on 3 Feb. 1793 and had dau. Eunice Fisk.

DURKEE FAMILY

Elizabeth[3] Durkee who married David[3] Fiske, 25 Dec. 1723, Windham, Conn., was born 26 Apr. 1697, Gloucester, Mass. (Gloucester V.R.). She was the daughter of Decon John[2] Durkee, b. 3 Jan. 1664/5, Ipswich, Mass.; d. 1732 Windham, Conn.; mar. 22 Mar. 1669, Elizabeth Parsons (Gloucester V.R.), dau. of Jeffrey & Sarah (Vinson) Parsons of Gloucester and granddau. of William Vinson and his wife Sarah, who was the dau. of Sir Francis Paulet, and also maid of honor to Queen Anne of Denmark who became the wife of James I, King of England.

The Windham Church Covenant signed June 1723 was signed by John and William Durkee. On 19 June 1723, John Durkee and Thomas March were chosen Deacons. This was the opening of the Church at Windham Village. In his will of 6 May 1732, (Conn. State Library) Deacon John Durkee bequeathed to "my four daughters, Elizabeth, Patience, Sarah and Mary, each of them 38 pounds more than that they have received, to be paid in household goods or other moveable estate."

Deacon John[2] Durkee was the son of William[1] Durkee (Durge) who married at Ipswich, Mass., 20 Dec. 1664, Martha Cross, dau. of Robert & Hannah (Jordan) Cross. William Durkee was born abt. 1632 in Ireland. He was an Irish soldier captured on the battlefield by Oliver Cromwell's forces, transported to the Barbados to slave on the sugar plantations, freed under proclamation of Charles II and brought to Ipswich, Mass. by Thomas Bishop, merchant, as his servant. Since William Durkee was a Catholic, life was not easy for him among the Puritans and his marriage to Martha Cross was bitterly opposed by her parents. He is recorded at Dover, N.H., in 1684 and in Essex Co. deeds as late as 1713, but his date and place of death are unknown. His wife, Martha Durkee reared their children in Puritan faith. Martha was born 14 Feb. 1643 and died 11 Jan. 1726/7, Windham, Conn. Much of the Durkee information was supplied by E.E. Butler of Westboro, Mass.

JENNINGS OR GENINGS FAMILY

Eunice[4] Jennings, wife of John[5] Fiske, was born abt 1755 (she gave her age as 83 in 1838 in applying for Rev. Pens.), Windham, Conn. She was the daughter of Manoah[3] & _____ Jennings. Manoah

Jennings was born 8 May 1717, the son of Joseph[2] & Sarah (Geer) Genings. Joseph[2] Genings was b. 23 Nov. 1685, Windham, Conn., (Windham V.R. Vol. A, p. 5); married 31 Dec. 1707, Sarah Geers, (Windham V.R. Vol. A, p. 47.) Joseph[2] was the son of Jonathan[1] Ginnings and his wife Susannah Wade.

Jonathan[1] Ginnings is said to have been the 2nd settler in Windham and came there from Norwich, Conn. He bought land in Windham from John Birchard and took possession in 1690. He was one of the signers of the application to have Windham made a Township and in Aug. 1692, he and Jonathan Crane were directed to survey and lay out lots for settlers at the "Ponde Place" (now Mansfield), and to lay out land for John Larrabee to repay him for maintaining a ferry across the Nachaug River for seven years. He and four others built the first saw mill at Beaver Brook. He was elected a fence-viewer in 1698 and a surveyor of highways in 1719. With the continued growth of Windham, the need was felt to build a Church and obtain a minister. Early in 1695, Messers. Ginnings, Huntington, Royce and Wade were directed to "measure where the path goes and so to find the senter for a meeting-house," between the north and south boundaries of the town. In 1696, a Mr. Whiting was chosen for their pastor and as he was to be married just before coming, the town had to hurry to build a house for him and his bride. The men of the town were formed into squads for this work, each directed by a leading citizen. The second squad was led by Jonathan Ginnings and included Joseph Dingley, great grandfather of Mary Dingley Martin who married (42) Salathiel Neff.

Joseph[2] Genings was a signer of the petition to the General Assembly in 1716 (with Clement Neff and others) to create a new church in the north east part of Windham creating Canada Parish. When a minister was obtained in June 1723, Joseph was one of the members who signed the Church Covenant. In 1727, the Town records note that Joseph Genings and Nehemiah Ripley, having learned the art of tanning leather and "followed the trade, so that the people had a better supply of shoes, which is a public benefit," received permission to set up their tan vats on the waste land or highway below Broughton's spring.

In Book K, page 309, of the Windham Land records is a deed whereby Manoah Ginings (grandfather of Molly Fiske Neff), Stephen Tracy, Thomas Welch, James Utley Jr. and Simeon Robinson, all of Windham, each gave a strip of land about two rods wide to form a public highway, "beginning at the land of Manoah Ginings and extending southerly through the lands of the subscribers until it comes to the highway leading from Jeremiah Welches' House to the Meeting House in the 1st Society in Windham," 18 April 1754.

The children of Jonathan & Susannah (Wade) Genings were: 1. Jonathan b. 13 Jan. 1679, 2. Mary b. 13 Dec. 1682, 3. Joseph b. 28 Nov. 1685, 4. Hannah b. 15 Feb. 1689, 5. Joseph Genings b. 28 Nov. 1685, married 31 Dec. 1707, Sarah Geer, the daughter of Jonathan[2] (George[1]) & Mary ( ) Geer. The children of Joseph and Sarah (Geer) Genings were: 1. Susannah b. 28 Nov. 1708, 2. Joseph b. 21 Sept. 1712, 3. Jonathan b. 17 Oct. 1714, 4. Manoah b. 8 May 1717 and d. 1 Nov. 1798 ae 81 yrs. 5 mo. 23 da., 5. Robert b. 11 July 1719, 6. 75. JOHN[5] NEFF JR. (John[4], Clement[3], Clement[2], William[1]), born about 1782, Windham, Conn.; died between 1840 and 1850, Ellington, Conn.; married about 1805, MARY DEAN.

John Neff Jr. served in the War of 1812. He is listed in the John Cotton Smith papers in the 9th Co. under Seth Comstock, Sept. 16, 1813 to Nov. 1, 1813 (Conn. Hist. Soc. Coll. Vol. 26, p. 65-68).

John Neff Jr. is listed in the Census of 1810 in Windham, Conn., the next family after his father. He bought a farm from John Wesley Squier et al., of Ashford, for ₤29 on 20 Sept. 1813. The farm had 30 acres, part on each side of the highway and was located about 4 miles north of the Windham Court House. On 6 May 1818, John sold this farm with dwelling house and barn to his brother, Stephen Neff, and moved to Ellington. According to his great-grandson, George Neff, John Neff and his family lived in a log cabin in the woods which then covered that part of Ellington. In later years, when his son Solomon and family were occupying the house, it was burned in a forest fire.

What has been termed one of the greatest mass migrations in American history took place shortly after the American Revolution, and the various Indian skirmishes which followed. Members of the Neff family, including the descendants of Amos and Loami, were caught up into this tremendous population surge toward the west. Vermont became a state in 1791. Connecticut and Massachusetts families, including the Neffs, poured in. Many acres of New York state were given away as bounty lands to soldiers, and Neff families took advantage of these in 1790 and on. The general westward movement found Neff groups moving west (together with friends from the same town and numerous other families) by means of horseback, ox cart, the Erie Canal (opened in 1825) by boat from Buffalo, N.Y., and on into the rich, and more or less level and stoneless fields of the west. They settled early in New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa. Sometimes the men hunted alone for new locations, and often they took with them their wives, children, and household goods. Frequently the settlers gave to the new settlements the familiar New England town names from which they came - Windham, Hartford, Salem, and Fairfield, including many Newtowns. Here and there in the Neff families faded letters have been preserved telling of early hardships and promises.

It is not possible to make sweeping statements about any family group and to have them continuously true, yet one may say that many members of the Neff family are strongly inclined to be musical. In the early days there were talented fiddlers among them. Both the early Connecticut and New York groups showed this musical ability. Present day Neff descendants are likewise talented. See #72, 362, 519, 618, 773. Earl L. Neff (under #349) is believed to have the violin used by #72 Joseph for so many years. The chin rest is deeply worn.

James Neff took the freeman's oath at Braintree, Vt. in 1810. The census of 1820 shows him to be living at Braintree with his wife and two boys and two girls under 10 years. By 1830, census records show him in Erie Co., N.Y. in the Buffalo area and from 1850 until he died, he lived at Chesterfield, Macomb Co., Mich. (P.O. address New Baltimore, Mich.).

James Neff served in the War of 1812 and had Pension Certificate No. 15,279 (State of Vt. Roster of Soldiers in the War of 1812). His pension papers in Washington, D.C. give details of service, etc. He enlisted 17 Sept. 1812 in Capt. Wheatley's Co. of Vermont Militia and was discharged 8 Dec. 1812. He re-enlisted the same day in Capt. Wright's Co. of Vermont Militia and was discharged 17 March 1813. He enlisted for 3 months and served as a substitute for Joel Bradley for 3 months. One of the papers on James in connection with his grants of land, states that both Companies were in Col. Fifield's Regiment and that James was at Plattsburgh soon after the battle, arriving the same day of the fight. James was stationed for a time at Burlington, Vt. He received a grant of 40 acres in 1851 which he sold and then applied for another grant in 1853. This was apparently not granted as his son Nathaniel, a minor, made an application on 12 Nov. 1855. A paper dated 1871 states James was then 73 years old.

163. LORA[6] (or ZORA) NEFF (Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]), born 28 March 1794; died 1879 at Pittsfield, N.Y.; married 14 Nov. 1816, Burlington, Otsego Co., N.Y. TIMOTHY MORSE Jr. born 1794, Burlington, N.Y. and died 1870 at Pittsfield, N.Y.

Lora and Timothy Morse lived first at Burlington and then bought a farm at Pittsfield, N.Y. about 1823. Timothy was the son of Judge Timothy Morse who was born in Mass. 1754 and died 6 April 1821, Burlington, N.Y. (Otsego Herald & Western Advertiser of Apr. 9, 1821). Judge Morse married a Miss Lee, also born in Mass. and they raised a large family of children of whom Timothy Jr. was next to the youngest.

Morse children:

i. Timothy P. Morse b. Nov. 1820, Burlington, N.Y.
ii. Miriam Morse who mar. Mr. Sisson & Mr. Hawkins. 3 children: Emily Hawkins, Arthur Hawkins, Lula Hawkins who was Mrs. Hand of New Berlin, N.Y.
iii. William H. Morse who had a son, Arthur Morse.

164. JOSEPH[6] NEFF (Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]), born 24 July 1796; married 17 Jan. 1826 TABITHA[5] AYLESWORTH (Elkanan[4], Thomas[3], Chad[2], Arthur[1]), born 19 May 1797 and died 3 July 1866 at Garrattsville, N.Y. They were married at Burlington, N.Y. and lived there for 12 years after which they bought a farm near the Arkwright Co.'s reservoir in the town of Pittsfield, N.Y. Later Mr. Neff retired from farming and they moved to the village of Garrattsville, N.Y. where they both died.

A member of the Aylesworth family who very kindly supplied me with the ancestry of Tabitha Aylesworth, doubts that Mr. and Mrs. Neff had any children because a nephew of Tabitha's compiled the Aylesworth genealogy, and listed no children for them. However, this nephew was very young when Harriet was of a marrying age, or she may have died shortly after the Census of 1850 was taken. Since these children appear in the census and other records, they are listed below.

Children born N.Y. and Penna.:

338 i. Joseph d.y.
339 ii. Harriet b. 1832 in Penna. (Census 1850, Pittsfield, N.Y.).

165. ORRIN[6] NEFF (Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 29 Nov. 1798, Burlington Green, N.Y.; died 3 March 1882, Oshkosh, Wis.; married 18 Jan. 1826, Burlington, N.Y. CYNTHIA (or CYNTHA) PHILLIPS, born 5 Jan. 1808, Norwich, N.Y. and died 20 Oct. 1887, Oshkosh, Wis. Both buried Riverside cemetery, Oshkosh.

Orrin Neff and his family lived in Burlington, N.Y. until after 1830. They were living at New Lisbon, N.Y. at the time of the 1840 census. The family moved west to Wisconsin about 1852, going first to Neenah, Wis. where his brother, Abel Neff, was living. Later he moved his family to Oshkosh.

Cynthia Phillips was an orphan when she married Orrin Neff at 18 years. Family accounts say that she was raised, presumably in Norwich, N.Y. by a family which treated her as a daughter. Cynthia never forgot this kindness and told members of her family that she wanted to repay it by being equally kind to others during her lifetime. She was interested in helping her neighbors in Oshkosh, and took pleasure in learning about plants and herbs used in healing during that period. She learned some of her lore, it is said, from the Indians. Mrs. Sidney O. Neff (#564) in a letter to Marcelia Neff Fisher (#732) said that Cynthia was the daughter of Daniel Phillips. The History of Chenango Co., N.Y., Town of Smithville, p. 296, places a Daniel Phillips there in 1799, although other records of Daniel Phillips are lacking. No birth records for Cynthia have been found. However, word of mouth accounts of the Phillips family, as well as newspaper obituary notices, and Connecticut records, make it possible to assume that this Daniel might be the son of Barnard and Levina, Phillips, born 21 June, 1781, in Pomfret, Conn. (Pomfret, Conn. V.R.). Daniel's name disappears from the Connecticut records thereafter.

Barnard Phillips once acted as an Indian Scout. On one occasion he was captured by Indians, tied to the stake and about to be burned alive when he was rescued just in time by some passing soldiers. (Editor's note: This story might be applied more appropriately to Daniel in the forests of New York state rather than to Barnard, who apparently never left Connecticut, a state which was relatively well settled in his day. James Fennimore Cooper's Leatherstocking Tales deal with the dramatic Indian and white contacts in New York state.)

Newspaper clippings give further information about the Phillips family. See the Oshkosh Daily Northwestern, 16 March 1903, the obit. of E.M. Neff, and the Daily Northwestern of 28 Oct. 1902, the obit. of W.W. Neff. The V.R. of Rhode Island, Vol. 21, p. 471 lists Barnard Phillips Jr. as having been killed at Pomfret, Conn. in his 19th year by a fall from the steeple of the meeting house he was helping raise on 26 June 1810. An item in the Providence Gazette (R.I.) of 2 Oct. 1819 says: "Mr.---Phillips of Chenango, N.Y. killed by lightning though he spoke and walked after being struck." In support of the 16 March 1903 Daily Northwestern story of four of Capt. E.M. Neff's uncles being lost at sea, there is this: Phillips deaths, Bristol, R.I., V.R. Vol. 8, p. 387, Nathaniel Jr. lost at sea, Dec. 1802; Capt. Nathaniel at sea, 1 Feb. 1812; Capt. Thomas, and Samuel, at sea, 1818.

Barnard Phillips' birth is recorded in the V.R. of Conn., the son of Gillam and Abigail (Parkhurst) Phillips, b. 23 Sept. 1750 (Pomfret, V.R., Vol. 1, p. 44). Gillam apparently married 1) Mary Faneuil, niece of Peter Faneuil, of Boston, and 2) on 5 Mar. 1745, Abigail Parkhurst (Pomfret V.R. Vol. 1, p. 99). Barnard mar. 1) Levina, or Lucina Phillips and had John Lyon Phillips, b. 12 Dec. 1774; Molly, b. & d. 25 Oct. 1776; Daniel, b. 21 June 1781; William b. 26 July 1783. Mrs. Lucina Phillips d. 14 April 1785 and Barnard mar. 2) Abelena Bowman 1 Oct. 1788. Children: Ezra b. 18 Oct. 1789; d. 21 Nov. 1789; Sarah, b. 18 Sept. 1790 and d. 24 Oct. 1810; Barnard Jr. b. May 1792 and d 26 June 1810; George b. 10 Nov. 1793 and d. 29 Sept. 1810. Mrs. Abilene Phillips d. 30 April 1809.

Barnard d. 6 Dec. 1820, ae 70, and his death is recorded on page 238, under Death Records of First Church in Births, Deaths, Baptisms & Deaths in Coventry, Conn., 1711-1844.

Another story relates to the family's connection with Anneke Jans, whose Dutch family had a large holding which included what is now Wall Street, N.Y. City. Information on the Phillips and Wendell families may be found on pp. 242-255, Vol. 36, New England Hist. & Gen. Register. Also see Bond's "Early Settlers of Watertown, Waltham, and Weston," for Phillips, Parkhurst, and Barnard.

167. ABEL[6] NEFF (Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 12 Nov. 1802, Burlington Green, N.Y.; died 25 Sept. 1888, Black Creek, Outagamie Co., Wis.; married 12 Dec. 1827 at Burlington, N.Y. (Otsego Herald & Western Advertiser of 17 Dec. 1827), PHILENA STORKE, daughter John & Lucinda (Ellis) Storke, born 27 Oct. 1804; died 11 June 1878 at Oshkosh, Wis. Both are buried in the Ellenwood Cemetery near Oshkosh. See "The English Storkes in America," by C.A. Storke.

About 1837, Abel and Philena moved from New York state to Wis., where they settled first at Neenah, later moving to Oshkosh. Abel was one of the earliest settlers in Oshkosh. He built the old float bridge across the Fox river at the end of Main St. in 1847. The first team went over the bridge on 3 July 1847, and on 4 July 1847, hundreds of people walked across. Abel Neff was elected alderman in the first municipal election of 1853. "In the early days he was the monied man of the town," says the Daily Northwestern, Oshkosh newspaper, in its issue of Sept. 25, 1888. He built Neff's Hall on Kansas St., and a fine brick residence on Oregon St. He engaged in the boat business with Alonzo Leach, a son-in-law, operating as many as 11 steamboats at a time in the waters of Lake Winnebago. In those days there were no railroads running to Oshkosh. The St. Paul Railroad Co., which had a line to Berlin, purchased boats of Mr. Neff, after which it was an easy matter to ship freight to Oshkosh from Fond du Lac, Wis. At another time Mr. Neff and Mr. Leach took their boats to the Mississippi River where they operated them for some time. Mr. Neff built boats and operated them also. The steamer "Brooklyn" was one of the first boats ever built in Oshkosh. Mr. Neff was also a hardware merchant in Oshkosh.

Abel and Philena Neff had six children, the first four born at Burlington Green, N.Y., and the last two in Wisconsin:

345 i. Mary Ann b. 20 Oct. 1828.
346 ii. Paulina b. 13 July 1830.
347 iii. Eliza b. 15 August 1832.
348 iv. William A. b. 30 July 1836.
349 v. Joseph Byron b. 12 Feb. 1843.
350 vi. Esmeranda b. 8 March 1846; d. 3 Aug. 1847.

168. JONATHAN W.[6] NEFF (Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 28 Jan. 1809, Burlington Green, N.Y.; died Dec. 1885, ae 78; married June 1831, AMORET REED, daughter of Shubal Reed, who died in 1876, ae 72. Amoret Reed came from Tolland, Tolland Co., Conn. to Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1815 with her father.

Jonathan and Amoret Neff began their married life on the farm of his father, Joseph Neff, but on 4 April 1842, they moved to their own farm at New Lisbon, N.Y. Jonathan was a successful farmer, the owner of 600 acres of land besides much other property, all of which was acquired by his own industry and good management. He was considered one of the wealthiest men in the County. Both Mr. and Mrs. Neff were well educated and Mrs. Neff was a teacher in the public schools before her marriage. Mr. Neff was also a stock raiser and grazier.

Children born at Burlington, N.Y. (family rec.):

i. son who d. in infancy.
351 ii. Joseph H. d. ae 6 yrs.
352 iii. Jonathan R. b. 10 March 1841. Jonathan R. Neff never married. He grew up on his father's farm and was educated in the district schools. He was Associate Judge in 1882 and 1883, served as Justice of the Peace for 12 years or more and also as a Notary Public. He did not go to Law School but read law at home, assembling a very good law library of his own. He was the legal adviser for many people in Otsego Co., settled estates, adjusted differences, aided many soldiers in securing pensions, etc. Mr. Neff was a Republican and although living in a strong Democratic town was elected repeatedly to office. He increased the estate left to him by his father and owned 1000 acres of land in Otsego Co. There is a fine write-up of him in the Biographical Review of Otsego County, New York, p. 437, 438.

169. SAMUEL[6] NEFF (Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 11 June 1814, Burlington Green, N.Y.; died 11 May 1878, Menasha, Wis.; married first MARY ANN PRATT born 20 Apr. 1814 at New Lisbon, N.Y. and died 28 Sept 1847, Winnebago Rapids (now Neenah) Wis., the daughter of Capt. Elisha Pratt (1790-1877) granddaughter of Jeremiah Pratt (1763-1863), and greatgrandaughter of Edward Pratt (1723-1766); married second Sept. 1848, MARTHA ANN MILLER born 1830, daughter of Levi and Olive (Wright) Miller, of Dutch descent.

Samuel Neff lived on a farm south of Burlington, N.Y., at Burlington Green. One day his neighbor, Theodore Utley, returned from Wis. and promptly came over to tell Samuel about how wonderful Wis. was -- "never saw such corn, fish, etc.." Samuel is said to have set his hoe in the fence corner and gone to the house where he said to his wife, "Mary Ann, get ready! We are going to Wisconsin!" He left with his wife and little daughter, Emily, going by way of the Erie Canal and lake boats. They settled at Spring Prairie, Walworth County, Wis. Wagon trains frequently passed through Spring Prairie on the way north and often one or more oxen lagged behind from fatigue. Samuel bought these oxen and after rest and good feed they were soon ready to be sold, at a profit, to another passing pioneer. All this was before Wis. became a state. The family lived in this place for several years and bought land.

Lewis was born while they were at Spring Prairie in 1844.

Samuel's two brothers, Orrin and Abel Neff, went north to Oshkosh to settle. Word came back to Samuel about the fertile land and the beautiful Lake Winnebago, so he decided to move up to Winnebago Rapids, as it was then called. When he arrived he had eight head of oxen. He bought a section of land bordering on Little Lake Butte des Morts (on the western outskirts of Neenah). To make his payments on his land he would borrow a pony from the Indians to ride to the Land Office at Green Bay.

In Cunningham's "History of Neenah," James Ladd writes his recollections of arrival in Neenah in 1846. He says, "We lost our way and after wandering a long time, struck on an Indian trail which brought us to Mr. Jourdan's on the Neff farm. It was late afternoon. We were tired and hungry, but here we were served to a good dinner of wild duck, etc."

Mr. Neff had on his land one of the first five houses built by the government. It was built of hewn logs, two stories high, with a large fireplace for cooking. It was located not far from the Hill of the Dead on Winnebago Rapids.

Mary Ann, Samuel's first wife, died 28 Sept. 1847. He then took Emily and Lewis and went back to Burlington, N.Y. He married Martha Ann Miller in Sept. 1848. She was small in stature, 18 years old, while Samuel was 44. She told her grandchildren many tales of the hardships and the Indians and of how frightened she had been as a young woman. She had nine children. They came west by boat to Sheboygan and north in Wis. by oxen-pulled wagons.

Samuel and Martha Ann Neff were Charter members of the Neenah Grange #109, he being elected to serve as Treasurer. They were members of the Congregational Church in Menasha.

Samuel had 2 children by his first wife and nine by his second.

born 1803 (Census rec.) Windham, Conn.; died , Vienna Township, Genesee Co., Mich.; married 1) 12 June 1836, Norwich, Conn., by Rev. William Livesey, Elder, CLARK ABBEE (Norwich, V.R. Vol. 5, p. 389) who was born 30 Jan. 1811, Windham, Conn., and died 23 July 1838, Vienna Township, Mich. (gr. st. Pine Run Cem., Mich.); married 2) 3 Sept. 1840, Vienna Township, Mich., GEORGE W. HUYCK (Genesee Co. mar. rec.) who was born about 1802 in N.Y. state.

Clark Abbee was one of the earliest settlers in Vienna Township, Genesee Co., Mich., as, according to the land-office records, he purchased land from the Government at the rate of $1.25 per acre, in Section 13, in 1833, and in Section 25, in 1834. He went back to Conn. to marry Miss Mary Neff in 1836, returning immediately to Mich. with her, to settle permanently. He purchased more land from the Government in Section 26, in 1836. At the first Township election, held at the home of Charles McLean on the first Monday in April 1837, Clark Abbee, Isaac Van Tuyl and George Sparks were elected Assessors. In 1838, Clark Abbee and Charles McLean and Grovenor Vinton were elected Fence-Viewers.

George W. Huyck was born about 1802 in New York state. He was one of the early settlers in Vienna Township, arriving about 1836. In 1842 George Huyck and Humphrey McLean were elected Constables; in 1843, George Huyck and Samuel Rone elected Poor-Masters; in 1844, George Huyck, Joseph W. Metcalf and Reuben Warner were elected Highway Commissioners.

The Congregational Church of Vienna, whose house of worship was located in Pine Run, was organized in the early part of 1845 by the Rev. Orson Parker, an evangelist and resident of Burton Township, Genesee Co., Mich. There were 22 members when the church was organized and George W. Huyck and George Sparks were chosen the first deacons.

Almon Neff went first to Middletown and then bought a farm in Cromwell in May 1838 (Middletown Land Rec.), adding acreage on two later occasions. He also owned a farm at Maromas for about five years. He worked in the famous sandstone quarries in Portland, Conn., on the east side of the Conn. River where his first cousin, Billings Neff, was the manager. Mr. and Mrs. Neff were members of the First Congregational Church of Cromwell.

Pine Run Cem., Mich.); married 1) 1 Apr. 1832, at Lisbon, Conn. by Rev. Barnabus Phinney, JASON SMITH of Canterbury, Conn., (Lisbon V.R. Vol. 1, p. 68), born 26 July 1805, Canterbury, Conn., the son of Ichabod & Actisah Smith (Canterbury V.R. Vol. 1, p. 226); married 2) 11 Dec. 1842 by Erastus Canada J.P., at Chaplin, Conn., DAVID A. FULLER (Chaplin V.R. Vol. 1, p. 30) who died Vienna Township (Clio), Mich., 15 Jan. 1847, ae 27 years. "Killed by the fall of a tree." (gr. st. Pine Run Cem., Mich.).

Jason Smith owned and ran a grist mill at Canterbury, Conn. The date of his death is not recorded but one would guess about 1840.

Some sort of epidemic must have hit the family in Mich., as it will be noticed that Clarissa Fuller died Aug. 30th, Marina died Sept. 3rd, and Lura Smith died Sept. 12th, 1858.

Children of Marina and Jason Smith, born Canterbury, Conn.:

i. A son who was drowned in the Mill race (old diary).

They went to Austin, Texas to live and in 1883 Waterman went back to Mich. and took Henry G. and Lucia (Neff) Thompson to Austin, Tex., to live with them. The Austin Directory for 1879-80 lists Waterman as "Fuller, Waterman S., Carpenter, residence s Bois D'Arc e of Navasota." "The last Austin directory that the Library of the Univ. of Texas has is that of 1887-88. At that time Waterman Fuller lived north of East 19th St., ¼ mile east of the city limits, which would not be too far from the University site." (Letter of 21 Jan. 1953 from Librarian, Llerena Friend, Barker Tex. Hist. Center, Univ. of Tex.). Minnie Fuller (see below) wrote 2 very interesting letters in 1883 and 1884 to Mich. relatives telling of the construction of the first building and the opening of the Univ. of Texas and also about the death and very elaborate funeral of a famous Texas gunman, also named Thompson, attended by all, as she said, "out of curiosity." Copies of these letters were given to the Univ. of Tex. Library.

173. WILLIAM GILMORE[6] NEFF (Stephen[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 7 July 1808; died 9 Feb. 1891; married CLARISSA BRAINARD BAILEY, born 19 Aug. 1812, the daughter of Lyman Bailey (born 24 March 1789, died 22 March 1868 at Higganum, Conn.) & Dorothy Bailey, daughter of Eleazer Bailey. Clarissa died 24 March 1880 (Will).

William bought a farm in Moromas 20 May 1833, jointly with Lyman R. Bailey, brother of his wife Clarissa, and in 1835 sold his share to Lyman. (Middletown Land Rec., Vol. 62 & 65). In 1858, William and Clarissa with their son Lyman and his bride, Hannah, went to Michigan, to join his brothers and sisters. Waterman Neff sold 2 lots in what is now the city of Flint. Apparently they did not care for it and after a few years returned to Connecticut. The writer has heard Hannah Neff tell with great feeling how little she liked the raw new country with all the dampness from the great forests which were then standing. In 1864, William G. Neff bought a large house and 5 acres of land in the Candlewood Hill section of the village of Higganum, town of Haddam, Conn., where he and some of his descendants have lived ever since.

Children born Village of Higganum, Town of Haddam, Conn.:

174. WATERMAN WRIGHT[6] NEFF (Stephen[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 19 July 1810, Windham, Conn.; died 3 Dec. 1870, Vienna Township, Mich.; married 12 June 1836 to LUCIA FENTON by W. Livesy, Minister of the Gospel, Norwich, Conn. Lucia Fenton was born 9 Dec. 1809, Mansfield, Conn. and died 21 Sept. 1889, Vienna Township (Clio), Mich. Both are buried in the Mt. Morris, Mich., Cemetery.

Wright Neff (as he was called) married Lucia Fenton on the same day that his sister Mary married Clark Abbee. All four went at once to Vienna Township, Mich. to settle. This was in the very early days there, when the land was covered with virgin forest and the roads were merely rough tracks through the forest. The trip was made by Erie Canal and boats across the lakes and then overland by covered wagons drawn by oxen.

In 1836, Waterman bought land in Section 6, and in 1844 he was paying taxes on property in Sections 25 and 26 and the farm on which he lived was in Section 26. (History of Genesee Co.) He later purchased a farm in Section 35 which he sold to his brother William in 1861, when William arrived from Middletown, Conn.

Mr. Neff was always very much interested in local affairs. In the first Township election, held at the house of Charles McLean (the Township's first settler), on the first Monday in April in 1837, Waterman Neff, Grover Vinton and Hiram Benjamin were elected Highway Commissioners. In 1838 he was elected 1 of 3 Constables. In 1840 he was elected Collector as well as Constable and one of five Overseers of Highways. In 1852 Waterman Neff and John Taylor were elected Commissioners of Highways. (History of Genesee Co., Mich.)

The Dallas, Texas, Weekly Herald of 6 Nov. 1884 had this item: "Marshall, Oct. 30 (Special) Wedding cards are out for the marriage of Henry G. Thompson and Miss Emma H. Barry, at the Episcopal Church in this city, at 2 o'clock, on the 11th of November."

177. LURA[6] NEFF (Stephen[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 14 June 1816, Windham, Conn.; died 25 March 1899, Haddam, Conn.; married ALVIN[7] BAILEY born 14 July 1810 and died 5 April 1880 at Haddam (village of Higganum), Conn. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are buried in the Higganum Cemetery.

Mr. Bailey was descended from John[1] Balye, or Bailey, one of the original group of white settlers who purchased Haddam from the Indians. The original deed is at the Haddam Town Hall.[1] Haddam Land Records, Vol. 1, p. 78, has a list of the sons of John[1] Balye, including John[2] Bailey who married Elizabeth Gerrard. The line continues with Ephraim[3] Bailey born 1 Jan. 1691; Gideon[4] Bailey born 1725 and died 11 May 1809 and wife Sarah (Senter) Bailey; Gideon[5] Bailey born 17 Nov. 1751 and died 10 May 1806 who married Lydia Spencer 6 Sept. 1773; Lyman[6] Bailey born 24 Mar. 1789 and died 22 Mar. 1868 who married 27 June 1807 Dorothy Bailey, daughter of Eleazer Bailey.

Alvin's brother, Lyman R. Bailey, seems to have brought William G. Neff to Haddam, when they purchased a farm together 20 May 1833 at Maromas. Lura (Neff) Bailey and Alvin Bailey had a farm on the main road from Hartford to Saybrook near the present Seven Falls State Park. Their barn still stands although the house was burned and the farm has a number of dwelling houses built on it. Alvin Bailey was a farmer and quarryman.

178. HENRY CLINTON[6] NEFF (Stephen[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 9 Sept. 1824, Chaplin, Conn; died 27 July 1907 at Higganum, Town of Haddam, Conn.; married at Franklin, Conn., 12 July 1855, EMILY JERUSHA HARTSHORN born 4 June 1837 at Plymouth

Hollow (now Thomaston), Conn., died at Jersey City, N.J. 18 April 1904, the daughter of Henry and Anna (Scott) Hartshorn.

Henry Neff and his bride went at once to Vienna Township (Clio), Mich., where his brother Waterman and sisters Mary, Marina, Eunice and Lucia were already living with their families. They traveled by covered wagon, going by way of the Erie Canal. Even in 1855 the township was covered by virgin forest except where it had been cleared for farms and there was still no good road to near-by Flint. Their first home was a log cabin, and it was not until after the Civil War that they were able to build the fine clapboard house now occupied by Mr. Earl Montague.

He responded to Lincoln's call for volunteers and enlisted Aug. 9, 1862 at East Saginaw, Mich. and was mustered in on the 11th of Sept., a private in Co. B, 23rd Regiment Mich. Infantry. A week later the Regiment left Saginaw for Kentucky where it was assigned to the 10th division of Gen. Rosencran's army and was soon pushed forward to Bowling Green, Ky., where it remained until May 29, 1863, employed in garrisoning that post and guarding railroad trains. Henry's diaries and letters, in the possession of the writer, tell much of this, including riding on top of a freight train. This refers to a detachment in command of Lieut. E.G. Wellington in charge of a train for Nashville, "which was attacked by a superior force of guerillas who were repulsed in so gallant a manner as to receive the commendation of the commanding general in orders." This occurred at Neeley's Bend where the Cumberland River was on one side of the tracks and a steep precipice on the other.

The Regiment spent June in pursuit of the rebels under Gen. John H. Morgan, moving rapidly through Mumfordsville, Louisville, to Jeffersonville, Ind., to Cincinnati and Chilicothe, Ohio, and back to Paris, Ky., arriving there just in time to save the railroad bridge from destruction and the small union force from capture in the ensuing battle. They left Paris Aug. 4, as part of the 2d brigade, 2d division, 23d corps, Army of the Ohio, Lt. Col. Spaulding commanding the Reg't. proceeding via Lexington, Louisville, and Lebanon to New Market. Leaving there Aug. 17, it participated in the advance into east Tenn., making a forced march of 30 miles, Loudon to Knoxville Sept. 15. The diaries refer to numerous battles, people killed, etc. and once several cannon balls going thru the camp, causing more excitement than damage. Henry was in the following battles; at Paris, Ky., 29 July 1863; Huff's Ferry, Tenn., 12 Nov. 1863; Campbell's Station, Tenn., 16 Nov. 1863; siege of Knoxville, Tenn., 17 Nov to 5 Dec. 1863; Dandridge, Tenn., 14 Jan. 1864; and Strawberry Plains, Tenn., 22 Jan. 1864.

The 23d Reg't., numbering 1417 officers and men, lost 287, with 228 of them dying of disease because of hardship, lack of food, etc. On 22 Jan. 1864, after suffering severely from dysentery for almost a year thru the various campaigns, he was transferred to Co. D, 23d Reg't Veteran Reserve Corps, stationed at Jeffersonville, Ind. Remained at Jeffersonville, Ind. until he was discharged 14 Feb. 1865, on surgeon's certificate of disability. Lacking proper medical care during the year at Jeffersonville he would have died, according to all reports, had his wife not been able to slip through southern lines and nurse him until she could take him home. The discharge was on order of Maj. Gen. Thomas, and papers were signed by George W. Kingsbury, Lieut. Commanding Co. Because a heart condition developed from this, Mr. Neff received a Civil War Pension later on.

With the War over, he was able to develop the farm in Vienna Township, Mich. His special interest was a large and very fine apple orchard. By 1890, he was renting the farm and living in Flint, Mich. where they remained until 1900, at which date they purchased a home at Higganum, Conn. This home they occupied from late March to Thanksgiving, spending the winters in Jersey City with their son Elmer. Mr. Neff's brother William and sister Lura (Neff)

Bailey and their families were living in Higganum.

Emily J. Hartshorn was descended from Thomas Hartshorn, propr. of Reading, Mass. 1648, and his son (Deacon and Dr.) David Hartshorn of Norwich (West Farms), Conn. before 1700 and one of the founders and first Deacons of the West Farms Congregational Church, now Franklin, Conn. Dr. Hartshorn is buried in the Plains Cem. there. (Emily[7], Henry[6], Eliphalet[5&4], David[3], David[2], Thomas[1]). She was also descended from John Knight, one of the original settlers of Newbury, Mass., and Joseph Scott and Seth Perry who served in the Revolution from Norwich, Conn.

Stafford). Emily Edson Neff was descended from Samuel Edson bp. 5 Sept. 1613 at Fillongley, Warwickshire, England, who married Susanna Orcutt in Warwickshire in 1638 and came to Salem, Mass. in June 1639. Samuel and Susanna Edson lived at Salem until, in 1651, they joined a company from Plymouth in settling Bridgewater, Mass., where he was the local miller. Crystal Lake Cem., Ellington, Conn.)

daughter of #89 Horatio Neff. Both marriages reported in the Hartford Times.

Elijah must have lived on his father's place in Crystal Lake, Ellington, as I find no record of his buying property but he was living in Ellington at the time of the Census of 1860 & 1870.

Children born Ellington, by wife Harriet:

400 i. Emily M. b. 30 April, 1859.

192. ELISHA[6] NEFF (Eleazer[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]), born 1831 (gr. st.) at _____. He died in 1896 and is buried in the Old Cemetery at Windham, Conn. Elisha married 1) MARGARET SMITH (Hartford Times, issue of Sept. 21, 1851) from whom "he was soon parted;" married 2) 20 Nov. 1856 at Chaplin, Conn., MARY CADY, 19, of Chaplin (Chaplin V.R. Elisha gave his age as 27), who died. He married 3) MARY E. HOPKINS, who was born 1840 and died 1921 (gr. st. Old Cem., Windham).

Elisha Neff lived in Ellington, Conn., and he was a farmer. His will #1611 at Conn. State Library was dated 20 Nov. 1893 and probated 26 Aug. 1895. It named his wife, Mary E. Neff, as executrix and listed bequests to his wife, his daughter, Minnie F. Spencer, living in Westerly, R.I., and his son, Lewis H. Neff, living in Ellington.

194. ELETHEA[6] NEFF (Elkanah[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 1814, Chaplin, Conn.; died 13 March 1884, age 70 years, (gr. st. Cheewink Cem., Chaplin); married about 1836/7 at Chaplin, Conn., BENJAMIN CHAPPELL, born 1813, Chaplin, Conn., and died Chaplin, Conn. Benjamin Chappell was a farmer.

Children born Chaplin, Conn. (Censuses of 1860 & 1870):

i. Samuel (F.) Chappell b. July 1838; d. Dec. 1914, Mansfield Hollow, Conn.; mar. 2 June 1861, by "Priest" Williams, a Protestant minister, at Chaplin, Conn., Eliza Ann Rightmyer b. 9 May 1843; d. Jan. 1915, Mansfield Hollow, Ct., the dau. of Rev. _____ and _____ (Swift) Rightmyer. Samuel always signed his name as above, adopting the middle name of Fones.

Eliza Ann lived in Paines Hollow, N.Y. She had earned a certificate to teach school and then came to visit her Uncle Brewster Swift in Coventry for summer vacation. While there she met Samuel Chappell and after a "whirlwind" courtship, married him instead of teaching school. Her father was the minister of a small church in Paines Hollow, N.Y. The church has disappeared in some N.Y. highway or reservoir project. Eliza went home to her mother for the birth of her first child, Herbert G., and the record of his birth seems lost with the other church records. Certainly Eliza's father who was minister of the church would have recorded it. Children of Samuel and Eliza Chappell were:

1. Herbert Griffin Chappell b. 9 April 1862, Paines Hollow, N.Y.; d. 13 June 1951, Chaplin, Conn.; mar. 17 Aug. 1887, Mansfield, Conn., Annie Laurie Whiton, b. 12 Aug. 1871 and d. 9 Aug. 1953, Chester, Conn. 195. BILLINGS[6] NEFF (Elkanah[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 5 Oct. 1816, Chaplin, Conn.; died 2 Feb. 1900, Portland, Conn. (gr. st. Center Cen., Portland; Commem. Biog. Rec. Middlesex Co., Conn.); married 1) JANE BARTLETT b. Portland 1820, daughter of Samuel Bartlett, and died 24 April 1869. The wedding of Mr. Neff and Miss Bartlett, Sept. 5, 1841, by Rev. Samuel M. Emery (Portland V.R. Vol. 1, p. 1), was the first to take place in the present town of Portland. Billings Neff married 2) 26 Jan. 1870 MARIA J. HOPKINS born Middletown, Conn., Jan. 1841, daughter of Russell Hopkins, a soldier in the War of 1812, died Portland, Conn., Nov. 1927. (gr. st. Center Cem., Portland).

In 1835 Billings went to Portland, Conn. to find work, as the current wages for a farm hand in the Windham area was $50 a year. Here he found work in the famous Portland sandstone quarry at $12 per month, working from dawn to dark. This and other Connecticut quarries furnished the material for the stylish brownstone houses in New York City. When he returned home for the winter, after his first season in Portland, he had managed to live on $10 of his wages and he took home enough money to buy his father a yoke of oxen. During his 30 years at the quarry he rose from the lowest position at $12 a month to that of overseer or manager at $3.75 a day. In 1872 he retired and engaged in farming and tobacco raising. He first built a house near the Methodist Church and later, in 1881, built the fine house on Main St., Portland, occupied by his family until 1927.

Billings Neff was first elected tax collector of Portland in 1855, and from 1866 to 1888 served continuously in that position. It is interesting to note that tax collections in 1855 were less than $7,000 and were more than $50,000 during his last year in that position. He also served the town as constable; served in the old militia and was a lieutenant during three years of that organization; member of First Congregational Church of Portland, filling several offices in that Society; charter member I.O.O.F. in Portland. Cast his first vote in 1840 for William Henry Harrison and thereafter voted for Whig and Republican presidential candidates.

After the death of her step-son Charles, and at the age of 72 in 1913, Mrs. Maria Neff took a Cook's tour of Europe and the Holy Lands. Two years later she took a Cook's tour to California and Alaska.

Child of Billings and Jane born Portland, Conn.

404 i. Charles Henry[7] b. 26 Dec. 1846; d. Sept. 1911. Never married. He was a quarryman for 20 years, and a stockholder in the Middlesex quarry at Portland. Charles was a naturalist and made a large collection of curios, Indian relics, native birds, snakes, insects and had a special case of birds' eggs. These collections were kept in large museum type cases and filled several large rooms in the house. He gave the Wadsworth Athenaeum at Hartford, Conn. a superb collection of birds' nests. He gave his large and fine collection of native birds to Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn. In 1901 he traveled extensively through the U.S., visiting San Francisco, Cal., Portland, Ore. and spending a week in Yellowstone Park. He was a Republican and registrar of voters in Portland for many years.

The compiler of this genealogy has many happy recollections of summer visits to the home of Maria and Charles Neff and spent many happy moments over the various collections of birds, etc. After a huge New England type dinner we were taken to the "best parlor" to hear the gramaphone with its cylindrical records and the music box with its large perforated brass records. Cousin Maria kept a large vegetable and flower garden until her death at the age of 86 years in 1927.

198 ALBERT[6] NEFF (Samuel[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born Sept. 1821, Chaplin, Conn.; died 16 May 1906, Richland Center, Wis.; married MARY E. MANNING born 15 March 1828; died 4 July 1904, Woodstock, Wis.; the dau. of Andrew and Mary (Dillon) Manning. (gr. st. Woodstock, Wis.).

Albert was the first of the three brothers to go to Wis. from Conn. An old history of Richland Co. says that Albert was 21 yrs. old when he settled in Milwaukee in 1842. He worked as a building contractor for two years, then moved to Watertown and engaged in the same business. In 1855 he moved to Richland Center, Wis. where he purchased a hotel, calling it "The American House." After running the hotel for six and one-half years he traded it for land in the town of Henrietta, near Woodstock, Wis. This was apparently a farm, as an old diary of Elmer H. Neff's (#378) tells of visits by himself and parents 1890/91 to Albert's family. Albert was also a lay preacher and a deeply religious man. The writer has several letters written to her grandfather both before and after his wife, Mary, died.

The only dau. of Albert and Mary died in infancy. Before leaving Richland Center they adopted Genoa Elnia and Oscar Melvin Wilson, children of James and Amelia (Price) Wilson, who were then called Genoa and Oscar Neff.

DEXTER born 3 Jan. 1824 at Chaplin, Conn., the dau. of Frederick Dexter. Her parents died when she was a child and she was adopted into the family of Wolcott Hackley who took her to Wisconsin. Mr. Hackley was one of the early merchants in Waterville. Clarissa died 9 April 1889. Charles married 2) 6 July 1890 MRS. MARTHA (CHAMPION) WISHMAN, dau. of Thomas Champion.

Charles Neff grew up in the town of Chaplin where he learned the trade of blacksmith. He went to Milwaukee, Wis. in Oct. 1843, intending to follow his trade there, but later that fall he went on to Waukesha County and established himself in business in the village of Waterville, in Summit Township, Waukesha Co. He resided on Sec. 36. Ox teams were used chiefly by the pioneers and, as word spread concerning the excellence of his work, he served a very large area with considerable financial success for more than 51 years.

200. RALPH[6] NEFF (Samuel[5], John[4], Clement[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 26 Aug. 1828 (letter Albert Neff in 1900 to Henry C. Neff) Chaplin, Windham Co., Conn.; died in 1907 at Colby, Kan., at the home of his daughter Clara; married 1st MOLLY DOWNY, born Ireland, at Richland Center, Wis., where she died before 1862; he married 2) in 1862 at Richland Center, Wis., MAY BECK who was born in Indianapolis, Ind. and died 17 Aug. 1901 at Pinewood, Colo., at the home of Clark Neff, and is buried at Loveland, Colo.

Most of the following was told me by Ralph's youngest daughter Emma Neff Storey. Ralph Neff went to Wisconsin after his two older brothers, Albert and Charles Neff. He went via Erie Canal and the Great Lakes. He told his children about the lovely apples which they had in great quantity in Conn. and of which there were so few in Wis. He bought a 40-acre farm on Buck Creek, in or near Richland Center, Wis. but he did not like farming. He had learned, and preferred, the blacksmith trade from his brother Charles Neff at Waterville, Wis. Emma remembers that the school was 1½ miles from home and how terribly cold the walk was during the 3 months of school in winter. One of the ways in which Ralph earned money in Wis., was to cut railroad ties. When there was snow on the ground, these could be hauled on sleds for 10 miles and sold for 25¢ each.

By 1881, the family decided they had had enough of the cold Wis. winters and headed south. The son Clark had already gone to Colo. Ralph Neff traded his farm for cash and a team of mules and set forth for Iowa in a covered wagon, leading a mare and a colt. However, the colt could not keep up and had to be sold. They ferried across the Mississippi River which was an exciting ride. They lived for a few years at What Cheer, Iowa. This was a coal mining town and the first time the children had ever seen coal except for the charcoal which their father had made from wood. The schools were better here. Later they moved on to Winona, Kan., where Ralph had a blacksmith shop. Clara liked school and eventually became a teacher in Winona. Emma worked for a printing company until she was 18. Clara Neff took up a homestead on the outskirts of Winona in 1888 and here her father raised sheep. She taught in a sod school house and their home was made of sod, as were all buildings in that region at that date. The inside walls of the home were whitewashed for cheer and cleanliness. Ralph is listed in the 1895 census for Winona. Julia Neff Pritchett's daughter Ethel, lived with her aunts and grandpa.

340. (Captain) EDWIN MARION[7] NEFF (Orrin[6], Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 7 April 1829, Burlington, N.Y.; died 13 March 1903, Oshkosh, Wis.; married 4 Oct. 1853 CATHERINE A. TUTTLE, of Madison, Wis., born 1834 in Lancaster, Glengarry Co. (Ontario), Canada, dau. of Solomon and Mary (Day)

Tuttle. Mrs. Tuttle died in Oshkosh in 1874.

Captain Neff was educated in the New York state schools, graduating from the Academy at Garrettsville, N.Y. at the age of 18, after which he taught school for two years. In 1849 he accompanied his parents to Wisconsin where he taught school in Oshkosh for a short time. He also tended the toll bridge which his Uncle Abel had built across the Fox River. He was the first Marshal of Oshkosh, elected at the first meeting of the common council in 1853. At about this time he began his career as a boatman, continuing this career until he was 70 years old. His first craft was a sail boat with oars which he plied between Fond du Lac and Oshkosh. He superintended the building of several boats, including the first steamer on the Mississippi River. He built several barges for the use of the Diamond Line in the wheat traffic, which he towed in a fleet through the Portage Canal to the Mississippi River. In 1850 he built a boat which ran between Neenah and Appleton on Lake Winnebago. At that time these towns had no other means of communication. He commanded the Eureka, nicknamed "The Pickerel," which went to the Mississippi River in 1861, and in 1863 he acted as pilot when the side-wheeler, Fannie Fisk, went to the Mississippi. On the Mississippi, he was Captain of the packet steamer Arizona, which was purchased by the government and remodeled for use in the Civil War. Because of rheumatism, his services as a member of the navy were rejected, and when the boat was sold he returned home.

In 1875 he entered the employment of the United States government as Captain of the Crawford, which was used at that time for conveying material for the United States Engineering Dept. in the improvement of the Fox River. He commanded the Henrietta 13 seasons, the Boscobel and Dekorsa, each several seasons. He always kept an accurate record of the boats he sailed, and this record was later the basis for many articles. He was a Republican, and active in campaign work. He was a member of Winnebago Lodge #120, I.O.O.F. See the Oshkosh Northwestern 16 March 1903 for his obituary; the Commemorative Biographical Record, J.H. Beers & Co., 1895., p. 920; the Oshkosh Northwestern 1 March, 1941 on navigation in the Fox River Valley; also 'Oshkosh, 100 Years a City, 1853-1953."

343. (Captain) WILLIAM WILBERFORCE[7] NEFF (Orrin[6], Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 28 July 1839, Burlington Green, N.Y. in the same room and house as his father, Orrin; died 28 Oct. 1902, Oshkosh, Wis.; married 31 Dec. 1862 MARY ELIZABETH ELLENWOOD born 18 Feb. 1847, Peru, Clinton Co., N.Y., the daughter of Benjamin and Parmelia R. (Ferriss) Ellenwood, and died 7 Feb. 1927, Freeport, Ill. Both are buried at Oshkosh, Wis. For Ellenwood ancestry, see under Capt. Samuel Neff #344; for Ferriss ancestry, see The Ferris Family, by Harriet Scofield.

(William Wilberforce (1759-1833) for whom the Captain was apparently named, was a celebrated English anti-slavery crusader and philanthropist).

William W. Neff came to Wisconsin with his parents when he was 12 years old. He married at Oshkosh, and spent the rest of his life there. In his youth, he served a 4-year apprenticeship at the printer's trade and for a time was a printer on the Courier, one of the early newspapers of the state. However, William was soon drawn to the boats, the cargoes, and the shipping business of his relatives. His first boats carried cargoes on the Wolf and Fox Rivers, and on Lake Winnebago. He also went to the Mississippi River, using the then new waterway down the Fox, which joined the Wisconsin at Portage, Wis. The routes often held unexpected adventure. He held a boat captain's license for more than 40 years, and for six years of that time he held a pilot's license, and served as captain on Mississippi river boats.

An account in "Oshkosh - 100 Years a City," p. 599, says that the boating firm of Neff (Abel) and Leach built the sternwheel steamer, Brooklyn, in 1865. Capt. W.W. Neff commanded the vessel which ran between Oshkosh and Green Bay. In a story about the early Fox River navigation, the Oshkosh Daily Northwestern of 1 March, 1941 cites the voyage of the Henrietta from Oshkosh to Duluth "...a long distance feat for that day.... The Henrietta was a sternwheeler and built low to the water so it was no small task to plow the angry waves of Lake Superior through the entire length of that inland sea. William Neff was in charge of the Henrietta during its perilous voyage."

He built the side-wheeler, W.W. Neff (an oil painting of which hangs in the Oshkosh museum), a large boat for that day, and at the time of his death he was owner and captain of the Evelyn. For a time it was a passenger boat and ran between Grand Rapids and other Lake Michigan ports.

W.W. Neff wrote a series of articles on boats which may be seen in the Oshkosh Public Library. He served as Chief of Police of Oshkosh in 1890 and 1891. He was a 32 degree Mason, belonging to Oshkosh Lodge #27, and was a member of the Knights of Pythias and the Odd Fellows. His obituary may be found in the Oshkosh Daily Northwestern, 28 Oct. 1902.

344. (Captain) SAMUEL[7] NEFF (Orrin[6], Joseph[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 31 March 1842, Town of New Lisbon, Otsego Co., N.Y.; d. 21 Feb., 1904 at Milwaukee, Wis.; mar. 30 Nov. 1862 at Ripon, Wis., MARCELIA CYNTHIA ELLENWOOD, born 19 April, 1844 at Peru, Clinton Co., N.Y., dau. of Benjamin and Parmelia

R. (Ferriss) Ellenwood; d. 15 Dec., 1899 at Milwaukee, Wis. Both are buried in Riverside cemetery, Oshkosh, Wis.

When the Captain was nine years old, his family moved from New York state to Wisconsin, traveling by canal boat and steamer, and settling in Oshkosh. At the age of 12, he shipped on a lake schooner, and when he was 15 years old, he was master of a freight hooker that plied on Lake Winnebago. He was once caught in a severe storm on Lake Winnebago while in a small sailboat. He couldn't make land. For a time St. Elmo's fire came to rest on his rocking mast head, but he was safe as he tacked his boat back and forth all through the long night. Five years later he gave up sail boats and began steamboating on the Mississippi River, where he remained until 1871.

Captain Sam helped take the Neff boats from the Fox and Wolf Rivers, down the Wisconsin River and thence to the upper Mississippi where they carried freight and passengers to and from various points on the river, including trips between La Crosse and St. Paul. Prairie du Chien, Wis. became his headquarters. Some of the boats used in this period were the Arizona, the Pearl, the Eureka, W.A. Knapp, and Menominee, and the barges, Menasha, Van Ness Barlow, Fly and Top.

One day young Sam took his turn at the helm of the Eureka. A group of passengers sat on deck just forward of the pilot house. Sam could not help hearing their conversation. Diamond Jo (Joe Reynolds) may have been there, as he often rode the Neff boats, and chartered some of them to carry grain. Each bag was marked with the shape of a diamond containing the name Jo to distinguish him from another Joseph Reynolds. The Diamond Jo line became well known. That day the group of men talked of many things.

"You will never see a bridge across the Mississippi," one man said. The others agreed.

Young Sam spoke up: "How would it do to build a bridge on boats?" John Lawler, one of the men, stared at Sam, and Sam thought that he must have made a foolish remark. He remembered that he wanted to sink through the pilot house deck. Mr. Lawler said: "And how would you do it, young man?"

"I would anchor the boats with their heads up stream, and build the bridge from boat to boat."

Mr. Lawler went away and came back in several hours. "How would you put the drawbridge in?" he queried. Before John Lawler left the Eureka, he showed Sam a drawing of the proposed bridge. He said to Sam: "I'm going to build that bridge." And he did. It was a railroad bridge and he charged for each car that crossed. John Lawler wanted Sam to join him in business, but Sam had other ideas.

Sam eventually became captain of his own steamer, and in the course of his career on the Wisconsin River, and the Great Lakes, owned more than 40 vessels, at one time having seven under his management. He continued as an active captain until 1899, at which time he retired to give closer attention to the shore interests of his fleet. He built several boats, some of them in his own shipyard at Oshkosh, and others in the shipyards of Manitowoc and Port Huron. Three steamers were still in his name at the time of his death, the Charles S. Neff, the Lucy Neff, and the Adella Shores. In 1903 he sold the Nebraska, Marion, Kelton, and Hale. His sons, Sidney and Charles, went into business with him, using the firm name of Samuel Neff & Sons. Later the sons formed separate companies. The Neff vessels were fortunate in never having a serious mishap. Samuel Neff achieved an enviable reputation as a wrecking engineer, raising several difficult wrecks. He was granted a patent on one of his devices for raising wrecks.

A letter dated 24 June, 1894 to Mr. E.H.N. from Mrs.

Marcelia C. Neff said that "the men were running the boats to Chicago from the Straits of Mackinac. Mr. (Sam) Neff and Charles on the steam barge 'Maggie Duncan' and the tow barge, 'S.O. Neff'. Sidney runs the St. Joseph, steam barge, and tow barge, Toledo." The propeller barge, Sam Neff, was built at Oshkosh by Capt. Sam in 1881. The St. Joseph was 160 feet long and had a 29-foot beam.

An interesting story is told about Capt. Sam with regards to the superstition that Friday was an unlucky day (a sailor's superstition). To prove that Friday was not unlucky, he started building one of his boats - the Charles S. Neff - on a Friday. All major parts of the boat were started on a Friday. The boat was launched on Friday and made its maiden voyage on a Friday. The boat sailed the Great Lakes for many years and was finally sold and used on salt water, going to South America. It never suffered from bad luck of any kind.

Captain Neff was asked at one time to run for governor of Wisconsin, but refused. He likewise refused the award of a Carnegie medal offered him for saving another's life. He was a member of the Lumber Carrier's Association; a 32 degree Mason, a member of Independence Lodge, No. 80, F. & A.M., and of Ivanhoe Commandery, Knights Templar.

ELLENWOOD ANCESTRY

Two Ellenwood sisters married two Neff brothers. Mary Elizabeth[8] Ellenwood married #343 William W. Neff, and Marcelia Cynthia Ellenwood[8] married #344 Samuel Neff. The ancestry of Benjamin[7] Ellenwood, the father, follows:

Ralph[1] Ellenwood, planter, came to New England in the Truelove, arriving in September of 1635 when he was 28 years old. He settled first at Salem, Mass., and then went to Beverly, Mass. He married, probably as his second wife, Helen Lyn at Salem on 14 March, 1655. He helped organize the first church at Beverly in 1667. He died in 1674. Children:

i. Ralph b. 18 March 1657.
ii. John b. 2 July 1659.
iii. Joseph b. 12 March, 1662.
iv. Mary b. 3 Feb. 1664.
v. Elizabeth b. 27 June 1666.
vi. Benjamin[2] b. 1 Feb. 1668.
vii. David b. 6 July 1670.

Benjamin[2] mar. about 1688 Mary - and lived in Beverly. He d. there 28 March, 1731. One of their 13 children was David[3].

David[3] Ellenwood was b. in Beverly 11 Dec. 1698; mar. 1) 23 Dec. 1719 Joanna Balch, b. Beverly 30 April, 1702; mar. 2) in Beverly 6 Dec. 1725 Margaret Wallis b. Beverly 1 Nov. 1699, dau. of Nathaniel and Anna (Rich) Wallis. He d. Beverly, 1777; Margaret was bur. 16 Sept. 1778. Benjamin[4] was the eldest of their seven children.

Benjamin[4] Ellenwood was b. 16 Aug. 1728 and mar. in Beverly 5 June, 1747, Susanna Corning, b. 5 Nov. 1727, dau. of David and Priscilla (Thistle) Corning, of Beverly. In 1764 they went to Nova Scotia and settled near Yarmouth, where Benjamin was one of the original grantees. His will, probated in Liverpool, N.S. 18 April 1775 lists his children as Benjamin, Nathaniel[5], Race, Susanna, Margaret, Anna, Joanna.

Nathaniel[5] Ellenwood b. probably early 1750s, mar. 14 Nov. 1781 Margaret Freeman, b. Liverpool, 19 May 1761, the dau. of Samuel and Mary (Doane) Freeman. Samuel Freeman, b. 8 Aug. 1715 was the son of Thomas Freeman, b. 12 Oct. 1676, Eastham, Mass. Nathaniel was a captain, and the owner, and part owner of various shallops and schooners, visiting Labrador and the Gulf of St. Lawrence on fishing voyages. He also engaged in the packet trade between Halifax, N.S., and Boston, Mass. Benjamin[6] was the first of their four children.

Benjamin[6] Ellenwood was b. Liverpool, 14 March 1783 and mar. on 10 Nov. 1803 Epiphany Tryphena Nickerson, b. Liverpool 25 Dec. 1785, the dau. of James and Rachael Nickerson. James Nickerson, a sea captain, was the son of Eldad and Mary (Cohoon) Nickerson. (See below for the career and murder of Benjamin[6] Ellenwood). Children b. Liverpool: David Ellenwood, b. 8 Oct. 1804 and lost at sea in 1830; Epiphany b. 10 Oct. 1809, and Benjamin[7], b. 20 April 1813. Captain Ellenwood's widow mar. 7 June 1817, William Riggs, a Halifax school teacher, the son of Henry and Sindenia Riggs, of Eastburn, County Sussex, England. They had two children, Alfred and Michael, and migrated to Salem, Ore., along the Oregon Trail. They were pioneers in Salem, and their descendants still live there.

Benjamin[7] Ellenwood b. 20 April 1813 at Liverpool, N.S. apparently left Nova Scotia with his brother James and went to New York state. James went into lumbering at Plattsburgh, N.Y., on Lake Champlain. The Census of 1850 lists Benjamin as living with his wife, Parmelia, and children in Peru, not far from Plattsburgh. Peru was a small agricultural village surrounded by orchards of high quality apples. Benjamin mar., probably in the early 1830s Parmelia R. Ferriss, b. 21 Sept. 1814 at Peru, one of the 10 children of William and Sally (Weston) Ferriss. Sally Weston Ferriss was the dau. of Lieut. James Weston, of Braintree, Mass. who served in the Revolution, and of Elizabeth Witherel, of Conn. Many members of the large Ferriss clan had settled in the Lake Champlain area. They were Quakers. (See the Ferriss Genealogy, by Harriet Scofield, of Cleveland, Ohio). Children of Benjamin and Parmelia were David b. 7 June, 1838, who served in the Civil war, Co. E., 2nd. Wis., and d. 16 April, 1899; Warren, b. 1840 who escaped from Libby prison during the Civil war, and d. in Calif.; Sidney, b. 1842 and d. In May 1857 Benjamin, his wife and children went to Wisconsin, and settled in that area near Oshkosh which contains what is now the Ellenwood cemetery. Later they moved into Oshkosh. Benjamin d. 1896 and Parmelia Ellenwood on 16 Dec. 1901.

NOTES ON THE CAREER AND MURDER OF CAPT. BENJAMIN[6] ELLENWOOD

Quotations from the book, "Under the Red Jack," Privateers of the Maritime Provinces of Canada in the War of 1812, by C.H.J.

Snider (Toronto - The Musson Book Co. Ltd.)

p. 156

"....On April 3rd. 1813, Joshua Newton, the Customs collector at Liverpool, endorsed the Retaliation's papers with the memorandum:

"'Benjamin Ellenwood hath taken charge of the within mentioned private armed schooner Retaliation in the room of Thomas Freeman, her former commander, who by reason of indisposition cannot proceed on the cruise.'

"If revenge is sweet Thomas Freeman had a syrupy cup to sip before the year 1813 was out. Benjamin Ellenwood was one of the best of the Nova Scotia privateersman. By July he had brought in nine more prizes with the Retaliation, beside those which he had driven ashore or which had slipped through his fingers by perils of the sea and recapture by the enemy."

p. 159

"Benjamin Ellenwood was promoted to a larger and finer privateer named the Shannon."

p. 242

"Schooner Shannon of Liverpool, N.S., Sept. 2nd., 1813 - (Date of letter of marque) - No better name was ever bestowed on a British fighting ship than Shannon; and after Joseph Barss, no more successful privateersman ever commanded a Nova Scotian letter-of-marque than Benjamin Ellenwood, who captained this schooner when 25 years of age. She was the captured American privateer Growler, of Salem, renamed by her purchaser, Snow Parker, of Liverpool, in honour of Capt. Broke's famous frigate and her victory of June 1st., 1813. The privateer Shannon measured 146 tons and had five guns and a crew of 50. Benjamin Ellenwood had only six men left when he manned out her 16th. prize on Nov. 2nd., 1813. In all, 19 of the prizes he made reached port safely. John Brown, one of his prize masters, succeeded to the command of the Shannon in June 1814, and made three prizes before going to the Rover....Gallant Capt. Ellenwood was murdered on Dolby's wharf, Halifax, in February, 1815, on the eve of sailing for home for Liverpool."

COTTRELL FAMILY

From the Flint (Mich.) Evening Journal, Sat. Oct. 23, 1897

ONE HUNDRED YEARS

Birthday of Mrs. Featherstone Was To-day

"But few of us have ever seen a person who has rounded out a full century of human life, and fewer of us will reach that period of life ourselves so that it becomes a matter of no little interest when the one hundredth birthday anniversary is celebrated. Such an event is being properly observed in our city today, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Cottrell, 1025 Stockton St."

"Mrs. Mary Featherstone, aunt of Mr. Cottrell, and who has been a member of his family for some years, today passes the hundredth milestone in her earthly existence, having been born near Maller, in the county of Cork, Ireland, Oct. 23, 1797. Her Father's name was Joseph Cottrell, and her mother's name, before marriage, was Eliza Farmer. Mrs. Featherstone was the eldest of a family of 13 children, of whom two others are still living, Mrs. Jane Clancy, a resident of the first ward of this city, about 88 years of age, and Mrs. Eliza Leghorn, of Jersey City, N.J., aged 75 years. About 1826 she was married to John Featherstone at Blarney, Ireland, with whom she lived about 20 years. In 1846 she came to America with her parents and other members of their family, leaving her husband in Ireland, to attend to the sale of some property before coming here. They were seven weeks and three days in crossing the Atlantic in a sailing vessel. Soon after reaching this country she received the sad news of the death of her husband, who was taken sick soon after their vessel had sailed. She never raised any children and has remained a widow now about 51 years. Her father died the year following their arrival in this country, and her mother died later in this city and was buried in the old city cemetery."

"Mrs. Featherstone is in high spirits today and enjoying the notoriety she has won. She is still unusually bright and active for an old person, with her hearing acute and her eyesight good enough to thread a needle without spectacles which in fact she has never used but little. She can go up and down stairs fairly well. She has on exhibition today a woolen quilt for which she spun the wool and made it seventy years ago. She bids fair to live several years yet, reaching into the 20th century, and living in 3 different centuries, the 18th, 19th and 20th. They had her photograph taken today."

William and Lottie lived on the ancestral place in Higganum. Will was an expert metal worker of the type we no longer have. He worked for the D. & H. Scoville Co. in Higganum, which made the southern cotton hoes. I remember a few visits to the place as a child, scared half to death by the noise and sparks flying around, as a helper removed a red hot rectangle of metal from the fire and placed it on a block. Cousin Will would pull a handle and an enormous log would begin to pump up and down while he, with the red hot bit of metal in his tongs, would turn it this way and that, shaping it into the sharp cutting edge for the hoe. Red hot sparks and bits of metal flew around, but he was well protected by gauntlets and apron. By the time a dozen of those huge hammers were pounding at the same time in the shop, the noise was terrific. After work, the hours were busy with the farm, dairy and orchard. 618. GEORGE DURWOOD[8] NEFF (Henry[7], Austin[6], John Jr.[5], John[4], Clement Jr.[3], Clement[2], William[1]) born 6 May 1871, Ellington, Conn.; married ELSIE E. PATRILL on 18 Aug. 1898, Ware, Mass. Elsie was born 8 May 1872 and died 6 March 1928, aged 55 years 10 mos. (Bible Rec.), the daughter of Wilson & Lydia M. (Lanfair) Patrill.

Mr. George Neff has led a long and active life with his "old-time fiddling," his business and civic interests. His grandfather, Solomon Neff, told him stories about "Uncle Joseph" Neff's prowess as a fiddler and made George, who had inherited a real musical talent from his mother, full of longing for a violin. At the age of eight, he made himself a crude violin which would play. When he was 11, a sailor came by one day and asked for a meal. He offered to sell them his violin and George's father bought it for him for 25 cents. This violin turned out to be an excellent instrument and George, who plays entirely by ear, was able to play for his first dance in a Tolland kitchen a year later. It is this same violin which he plays today, grown more beautiful and mellow with the years. It started George on a musical career which has given pleasure to thousands and has also brought him renown and two silver trophies for being the best old-time fiddler in northern Connecticut.

When he grew up, George bought a portable saw-mill and went into the logging business, traveling over various parts of Conn. and Mass. It was while he was working in Ware, Mass. that he met and married Elsie Patrill. He had a saw mill in Blandford for eight years at the time of the Provin Mountain project when the lumber was bought standing and he was hired as sawyer.

In 1915 the saw mill was sold in Mass. and the family returned to Tolland where Mr. Neff bought the old Grover place where he now lives. Here he carried on a small dairy farm where he wintered as many as 15 head. Just to fill in any spare moments, he set up a barber shop in the summer kitchen of the 200 year old house.

George served as Selectman for the town of Tolland for 17 years. During five of these years, he was First Selectman. In 1923 he went to Hartford as Representative to the State Legislature of Conn.

Because of his saw mill interest, when he formed a dance orchestra years ago, he called it the "Saw Mill Gang." His wife and children followed the dances with him and on occasion he and his wife danced a set to show how it should be done. Since he was often off in the woods when a call came to play at a square dance, it meant getting the family ready, hitching up the horse for what was often a long jaunt over dirt roads to another town, returning in the wee, small hours of the morning. This was likely to happen three and four times a week. Later he owned one of the first Stanley Steamers which shortened the trip immensely.

The "Saw Mill Gang" today is a family affair, for all of George Neff's children have had a musical education. Ellery, the violin maker, studied harmony for three years and plays the violin in the orchestra. His son Emery plays the saxophone and another son, Harold, also plays the saxophone and "calls off." Ellery's son Ben, 16, plays the trumpet and drums while Harold's son, Henry, plays the accordion. Henry's wife Jean plays the piano. Back in the days when radio was young, this orchestra was one of the pioneer broadcasters over both WTIC and WDRC. Such old favorites as Fisher's Horn Pipe, Hull's Victory, Money Musk and Turkey in the Straw were popular then as now. At 83 George is still strong and he and his orchestra are to be heard every Sat. night at the Vernon, Conn. Grange Hall.

His fiddling has created a splendid philosophy of life. He says that music does a lot for mankind. It breeds peace and goodwill. It could do a lot more, for if folks laughed and danced and fiddled, there wouldn't be any hate in the world because you can't hate anyone when you're dancing and fiddling. The song in his soul and a serene outlook on life has kept George Neff young at heart.

To find a desired name, look first in the index, or on the parents' page, and then follow the child's number to see if the child has a separate listing. Not all persons have these separate listings. To find a brief reference to a child not separately listed, follow the child's number in the index back to the parents' page. The small numbers over the names refer to the generation numbers. William[1] is the first Neff ancestor in America. Note the generation numbers in the index. A child of the ninth generation would be found within the ninth generation section, his parents in the eighth, etc. The name Neff is omitted in the index for Neff males. Neff females are listed by their husbands' names; their children are not listed in the index, but are listed on the mother's page.
